NEW METHODS IN THE CHAUTAUQUA

Advertising of Summer Chautauqua to See Some Unusual Methods Employed. How the System is Managed about here.

Unusual methods are to be used at Gettysburg this year in conducting the Chautauqua and the town and county will see a regular circus system on a small scale.

More than a month before the opening of the attraction a special advertising crew will arrive in Gettysburg and go from town to town in automobiles decked in pennants of red and white. The members of this enthusiastic crowd put up posters, distribute leaflets, visit committees and stir up anticipation generally. Six weeks later comes the group of energetic college boys that make up the Chautauqua remembrance. They come with their car the morning of the first day, roll up their sleeves and get to work in a way that proves that a formal education does not soften a boy in the least. They waste no time.

When they have driven their stakes, hoisted their canvas tents, dredged their playtime into place, cluttered the choice vacant lots in order, hurried through the thousand strenuous tasks of the first morning, the service of the seven days department has just begun. There is always something about the tents or ground to make ready for the daily shifting of entertainment.

Chautauquas in this section are run like a progressive game. Here is a chain of towns, A, B, C, D, and maybe C and D, etc. There is an average, say, of 30 miles between towns. At every Chautauqua the program is practically the same as the towns and is the order in which they come.

The Florentine Band crowd off the train at A and the fun is all night they are resting up for the next day's concert at B. Perhaps as they board the early morning's express for town B, where is the Chautauqua first day, they catch a glimpse of the seven singers of the Tyrolean Alpine Company taking their journey of the town the band is leaving. Or they meet Mr. Frank Dixon, the speaker for the second day at A, just arriving with his wife from Tyrolean and Mr. Dixon will be leaving the town within the next twenty-four hours to go the way of the first-day people. At the same time the third-day entertainment speakers will be on their way to take their place.

Wherever the band appears, it is the first day of the Chautauqua in that place. Wherever Mr. Dixon appears, it is the second day. Mr. Pearson's calendar through the whole season shall Chautauqua day. One man besides the roustabout crew of college boys, and the leaders of the Junior work, belongs to a town through the whole week. This is the platform superintendent who also gives the saxon lectures.

Dr. Jesse Holmes of Swarthmore College and Dr. A. E. Turner of Hastings College are two of a dozen splendidly capable coaches who will keep the machinery of the Chautauqua program game from developing hot-boxes.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY

Mrs. Oliver Newman and Nephew Thrown from Buggy.

A serious runaway accident occurred Tuesday evening about 6:30 o'clock, at Mt. Pleasant, this county.

Mrs. Oliver Newman and nephew, Haber Newman, of that place, were returning from a delightful auto visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rake, Mt. Pleasant township, when the horse became frightened at a gasoline engine in operation on the property of D. B. Bushman, near Mt. Pleasant. The animal ran at a fearful speed, with the occupants being thrown from the buggy. Mrs. Newman sustained a severe broken rib, a few ugly gashes on her forehead and internal injuries. The young man received a few scaly wounds, not of a serious nature, however.

The horse continued its mad run to the Newman home, about half a mile distant, and in making an abrupt turn near the barn, came in contact with a wire fence, breaking its right leg near the hoof. The horse, said to be a very valuable one, was killed later in the evening to relieve its suffering.

ODD FELLOWS ENTERTAINMENT

Sketches and Plays Entertain Friends at Local Lodge of Odd Fellows. Degree Team Shows Careful Training in their Drills.

Gettye Lodge of Odd Fellows entertained an appreciative audience in Fisher's Wheel on Thursday evening with a number of drills and two sketches in which they were assisted by several friends.

The stage was well decorated with the emblem, American flags for the drills, the first of which was the "Grand Drill of Four Flags Rode Squad". A team of sixteen members of the order in their handsome robes and costumes executed a drill of intricate figures including the formation of the letters "I. O. O. F." They were vigorously applauded and as their score formed the number of the local lodge "124".

"If Morning Glory Wins" was the title of the first sketch. The story revolved about a horse race and a will which aspired to, but two cousins should marry. Both were interested financially in the horse and the plot afforded plenty of fun. It was well produced by Ersay Ziegler, Richard Minhler, Miss Lucile Hankey and Miss Alice Williams.

The second drill was by the King's Guards in costumes of the Roman soldiers. A number of difficult figures were formed and the lighting effects added to this drill as they had to the first. Both were given with remarkable accuracy and the two squads from Bonneauville deserve credit.

"Forced Friendship" was the title of the second humorous sketch, the plot of which concerned the accidental entrance of Calvin Gilbert into the apartments of Miss Lucile Hankey, Miss Stellsmith and Miss Alice Williams, where they were entertaining a guest.

For a fraction of a minute the audience were given the privilege of gazing upon the closing "tableau". All the participants were assembled on the stage and in the center was C. B. Tate, a black-faced comedian, vigorously the ear of a mammoth Democratic donkey. In its supinene the audience forget that that this concluded the performance and for quite a while refused to their seats clapping for more.

PAPERS FILED

Had Judge Swope Mark Papers In Turnpike Case.

Senator John W. Hoke came to Gettysburg on Tuesday and filed papers for the State Highway Department, to have filed of record, in the case that seeks the condemnation of the Baltimore pike, from Hoke was attorney for the Commonwealth, representing the turnpike company. They were filed with Judge Swope Hardt in a State accommodation.

Senator Hoke went to Fulton County and filed the case and it will now go up to the Supreme Court next month and a decision will be got in June. If the case were not taken from Fulton county, it would not have been heard until next March. This agreement of the two counties expedites the matter just ten months, and, it is hoped, means that toll gates will be abolished just as soon as possible.

The turnpike company was determined to carry the case to the highest tions the constitutionality of the Sproul act.

UP AGAINST IT

East End Residents Hemmed in by Northern Maryland.

Residents of Gettysburg who live on the north side of Northern Maryland railroad in the East End of the town have come to realize somewhat will happen next. For some months they have noted the fact growing that the old ones at the furniture factory and that was finally secured. Now the Western Maryland is continuing its siding from Stratton St. to the Rock Creek bridge, bringing the tracks to within a few feet of some front yard gates, and preventing any driving whatever in front of the house. It is believed that the projected scheme of getting from an extension of Water street will be the easily possible means of new driving to these properties.

STATE ORDERS QUARANTINE

Not only Gettysburg but Other Towns and Townships to be Included in Quarantine on Account of Rabies.

Burgess Holtzworth on Thursday received the following letter from Dr. C. J. Marshall, state veterinarian:

Harrisburg, April 23.

Dear Sir:—

We have your kind communication of April 22, concerning the establishing of a general quarantine, and wish to advise you that at a regular meeting of the Board held this morning a general quarantine against dogs on account of rabies, covering a portion of Adams County, was adopted.

As soon as we can have notices of the general quarantine printed we will have them posted throughout the quarantined area and trust that you will use your good influence to have the provisions of the quarantine fully observed.

Yours truly,

C. J. Marshall,

State Veterinarian.

It is understood that not only Gettysburg will be included in the quarantine but that Biglerville, Bendersville, Arendtsville and the townships north and east of Gettysburg will be included as frequent cases of rabies have been rumored in those sections.

It is believed that the quarantine posters will be received in the course of the next few days and the provisions will then become effective.

During the past week there was a great demand for dog tags the last the county commissioners and from tax collectors by persons who want to protect their dogs. Muzzles are being bought and the establishment of the quarantine will see many dogs very protected.

CAN'T PLEAD GUILTY

A large number of persons charged with minor crimes in this county during the past few years have waived, under the provisions of a recent law, their right to jury trial and have pleaded guilty before the court and received their sentence from it.

There will be no more of this, if the decision of the superior court stands. This court is the case of William Lynch, Blair county, who was sentenced to from three months to two years in the penitentiary. Several days ago the legislature was made for a habeas corpus, which was granted, and the case argued before the court, which, on written by Chief Justice Rice, says that the defendant cannot waive the grand jury's findings.

Many prisoners who waived indictment are serving sentences and it is probable that many or all of them could procure their release under habeas corpus proceedings and undergo a jury trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Duncan were visitors in Harrisburg on Monday.

BREICHNER QUITS EMMIT HOUSE

Accuse him of Coming to Gettysburg to Avoid Summons. Come into Pennsylvania for Same Days. Interesting Hearing.

Considering that it was best for him to give up the fort, Joseph W. Breichner, who has been in command of the Emmit House, Emmitsburg, the possession of which has caused excitement times, has moved out. This step was taken Tuesday following the hearing before George R. Demmit in Frederick, at which Dr. A. M. Kelbach and wife were given a writ of restitution for the Emmit House, of which they are the owners.

At the hearing Judge Motter wanted to know why Breichner came to Gettysburg and Breichner replied it was on business, and when pressed he stated it was to see a man from whom he buys beer and that he also saw a hotel proprietor here. When asked by Edward H. Rowe how often he has to come here to evade summons, the witness replied Rowe had nothing on him anything of the sort. Judge Motter said Mr. Rowe swore to that at a hearing in this matter some time ago. Breichner said he was not true. Judge Motter then asked if Mr. Rowe had not told him he could not be served with a summons here, and Breichner, the witness half admitted this.

Breichner remained in Emmitsburg April 1 on Tuesday and did not return until about Sunday. Asked if he did not come to Gettysburg to Annie Mort's mother, just across the Pennsylvania line, Breichner replied the witness refused to answer. He stated he did not know that he was a man from Gettysburg and Judge Motter still insisted that he answer if he had gone to the Mort home.

The witness said to Judge Motter, "I want to know what you are here for. I want to her home, where it is, and when Mrs. Mort's mother will be home overseas' you". Judge Motter asked Judge Demitz to compel him to answer, which he did, but Breichner then admitted he had been to the Mort home.

Judge Motter wanted to know why Breichner remained in Pennsylvania for a week if it was not to evade service. H. Wood, Breitzner's counsel objected, saying that the witness thing only tended to show Judge Motter's opinion as a court, but Motter replaying "You have been a lawyer and know that's wrong, and you know there is no reason for all this".

TO TAG VETERANS

Every Veteran at Gettysburg Must Have Tag.

One of the safeguards that the Gettysburg semi-centennial commission has devised for the use of every one who takes part in the veterans' camp at Gettysburg in July is an identification tag which every man in camp will be expected to carry in his pocket at all times.

The tags are common large shipping tags, but are not intended to be tied to baggage. Both sides of the tag are printed, and room has been provided for the bearer's name, his post of the Grand Army or camp of the Confederate Veterans, and the legislation tag which every man in camp will be asked

BATTLE RELICS ARE DISCOVERED

Metal Portion of Gun, Numerous Minie Balls and a Few Other Things All that Remain after Fifty Years Exposure.

The discovery on Saturday of the metal, parts of an old army musket, together with a quantity of minie balls and other implements, on the side of the mountain, above the old "Tape Shaft Battlefield," a half mile east of Abel's Mountain station, makes one one of the rarest finds of relics reported in this section for many months. It was the good fortune of Clarence A. Wilt to make the discovery while surveying the line on a mountain lot recently purchased from his brother, Charles E. Wilts, and everything indicates clearly that a soldier was shot at the isolated place and the body lay there over since the battle during which time it decomposed, leaving nothing but the metal parts of his equipment and weapon.

Mr. Clarence Wilts was busy with his surveying work when he stepped on an obstruction between rocks which almost suddenly jumped and struck him on the leg. He stepped back quickly thinking that it was a snake but, finding that this incorrect,started a search and found he was excited by Charles Hartman and Bruce Wills who had been helping him with his surveying work.

"It was found that Mr. Wills had stepped upon the end of an army manket shield with which were found nearly all the metal parts of the gun together with several dozen minie balls, portions of a cartridge box, a bayonet sheath and belt buckle.

The peculiar part of the find is that it appears that both Union and Confederate equipment were found. The metal parts of the brass belt buckle, in relief, are an eagle with outspread wings grasping some arrows, all surrounded by a wreath of flowers, under which are the words "E Pluribus Unum". On the reverse side of the buckle and on the latch is the number 161—all of which indicates that it belonged to a Union army soldier. Most of the minie balls had two rings and the other half one ring.

On the lock of the gun, the hammer of which was cocked, is stamped "1863-C-Eagle-V" and the hammer, while back of it is stamped a crown. This was chosen as one of the English made guns used by the Confederates.

An exciting search of several hours over a considerable area of ground failed to disclose any other evidence or relics due to the location was in a depression between rocks and covered with six or more inches of leaf mould. It appeared that everything else—including the body of the soldier—had gone entirely decayed or decomposed.

The question which now arises is concerning the rights of the finder and what any soldier could have been doing in this particular locality. One theory advanced is that he may have have been on duty in connection with "The Battle of Gettysburg Dale" which occurred just east of the Methodist church at Fairfield, a couple of miles west of this locality. This skirmish was the first fight in Pennsylvania between the Union and Confederate troops.

A brief survey of the locality reveals the fact, however, that the huge rocks at which the relics were found command a view of all the surrounding country and overlooks Gettysburg, Fairfield, Emmitsburg and all the roads leading therefrom, over and around Abel's Mountain, so that in the retreat from Gettysburg this would have been a point of vantage for any purpose of information.

One of the minie balls was flattened and it is presumed that it was this ball which killed the soldier to whom all the paraphernalia belonged.

HUNTERS' LICENSE

Every hunter will be licensed like an automobile under the plan forced by the State Game Commission for enforcing the hunters' license act which became a law Friday, only there will be a serial number for each county in the State, to be followed by the license number. Adams county licenses will start with 1 and all issued in Allegheny will begin with 2, while York will start with 67 under the plan now being talked about.

The Game Commission will prepare at once the license cards to be issued to the hunters and all of the tags will also be provided. Every license will be accompanied by a white tag bearing the license number and the buyer must be worn on the arm like a sleeve when the hunter takes the field.

WILL CAMP HERE JULY 7 TO AUG. 29

War Department Authorizes Camp of Instruction at Gettysburg for Almost Two Months. College Students as Soldiers.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington two military camps are to be established this summer by the War Department exclusively for summer training of college students, one to be held in Pennsylvania during July 7 to August 29, and the other at the Presidio of Monterey, California, July 7 to August 29.

Students over 17 years of age, recommended by college officers or military instructors in colleges, will be taken immediately into the camps where they will be given practical military instruction, including practice marches.

The students will be required to pay their own transportation to and from once charges as well as to purchase their uniforms, but the Congress making no provision for the camps. The War Department, however, will supply the necessary equipment and will detail a number of officers for the provisional organization.

The Army and Navy Journal in telling of the plans for these two camps says:

"It is planned to give the students all the practical military instruction in the short time that they are stationed at the camp. They are now to be enlisted in a practice march at the Gettysburg camp, the regiment going to Antietam, where the men will be handled. The officers will be directed to give the college soldiers such work as will lay the foundation for effective instruction.

"For the regiment the War Department will furnish a regimental commander, one major, three battalion staff commanders, three battalion staff officers, three company commanders, and twenty four enlisted men.

"The students will be required to pay the cost of their transportation from the camps, there being no provision in the bill to cover any transportation. They will also be required to purchase a uniform at the cost of $7.66 and to pay for their subsistence in camp at the rate of $1.75 per week. Regular rations will be issued to them and they will have a rail ride to and from camp.

At the office of the National Park Association here Tuesday it was stated that the arrangements under the above camp are to made as outlined above, but that no orders issued from the War Department to that effect. It was also stated that the site for the camp had not yet been determined upon.

Officers in charge of the work in connection with the veterans' camp are still in doubt of knowing of the arrangements for the student-soldiers' camp next year but that they had not yet received any information as to whether or not the equipment of the big encampment would be used in the camp of instruction to be held here during July and Aug. 29. It is said, however, that such an arrangement was practically said to be a very sensible one and it probable that the same site was desired in view of all the equipment, including water and sewer facilities, being in place.

The same reasons to Gettysburg as a pleasant surprise as nothing whatever was said here of any such camp being held. Free advertisements announced it is evident that the Pennsylvania college authorities are expected to take advantage of the fact that Gettysburg is a location that they shall come from all the various institutions in the east. There will be a number of the central and southern divisions of the country but most of the troops of those divisions are now at Galveston, Texas.

The encampment of so many men at Gettysburg during practically the whole months of July and August will give the people of the city the best entertainment it has had in a number of years. It is the first time in the past that such has been held in the United States and, if successful will likely be a regular summer feature.

DECISIONS AFFIRMED

Two Adams County Court Decisions Affirmed by Higher Courts.

Opinions handed down on Monday affirmed two Adams County Court decisions.

The Supreme Court affirmed the opinion of Judge Sadler in the case of Miller vs. the Hanover Water Company in which judgment for $1900 was allowed Lori Miller.

The Superior Court affirmed the decision of Judge Swope in the case of Chares M. Fiscel vs. J. E. Kissinger Company in which a judgment of $106 was allowed the plaintiff.

WILL OPEN THE TOWN CHURCHES

Gettysburg Ministerial Association Decides to Open Churches for Accommodation of Visitors. Scale of Prices Arranged.

That all the churches of town will be opened to accommodate those in July who are unable to get rooms in the hotels and homes of Gettysburg was determined upon Monday by the ministers of the Methodist, town and vicinity meeting.

In order that there may be a uniform price for such accommodations as the churches may be able to give, the following scale of prices was determined upon: for a pillow 25 cents; for a pillow and cushioned pew, 50 cents; for a pillow, blanket and pew, 50 cents. At the time of the Peansylvania monument dedication several of the churches were opened to accommodate the crowds but no provision had been made for their comfort and many people took advantage of the shelter had to do the best they could to make themselves comfortable. It is believed that more will camp in the churches with a reasonable degree of comfort.

The members of the Ministerial Association further determined to hold services in all the churches of town on both the Sunday preceding and the Sunday following the 50th anniversary celebration. It has been the custom in the past to have service in only one church in town Sunday evenings in July and August, but for these first two Sundays this year all the churches will be open as it is believed both days will see the greatest visitors to Gettysburg.

The plan will be made to get Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan to conduct a sunrise religious service on one of the mornings. Addresses during Gettysburg during the week of the celebration will be arranged and placed in the hands of a committee of the association.

FINE CAR

New Auto Line will be Equipped with Fine Cars.

The body for the automobile bus to run between Caledonia and Gettysburg is now on the floor of C. V. R. car shops at Chambersburg. It is on the general plan of a trolley car but will be equipped with leather seats. Finished in hard wood throughout, the equipment will be of the highest kind.

It will be mounted on a White truck chassis of high horse power that will make the run in about the same time as a trolley car now requires. Entrance to the car will be at the rear and the driver's seat will look much like a regular Brill car.

WAR COLLEGE VISIT

Army War College will Visit Gettysburg in June.

A detail from the Army War College at Washington will visit Gettysburg in June, probably about the 15th. The exact date has not been set but has not yet been arranged. The tour has been made several times in the past, one year the officers coming into camp while in other years they stayed at hotels and visited the battlefield by automobile. Whether or not they will march here is also not yet unannounced.

A CURIOUS COURT

It Is Held Annually When Franco Pays Tribute to Spain.

PRICE OF AN ANCIENT PEACE.

After More Than Five Centuries Three Canons Are Still Hereby Presented Each Year to the Almighty Descendants of the Victorious Spaniards.

For more than five centuries there in the Pyrenees Highlands a remarkable fete it is held at the boundary stone of Hen ton Pierre, which marks the frontier valley Deretan from the Spanish valley of Aran. Every year the representatives of the French peasants assemble there to pay the price of the mountains tributes, which consists of three cartwheels. The delivery of the entire tribute and the delivery of the calves is accompanied by ceremonies which sufficiently indicate that the old inhabitants of the Basque valley were once victorious over their neighbors.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the mayors of the various villages in the Barton valley, stately adorned with their sash, white and red scarfs of office, begin to go to the boundary stone in front of the column make a bad, with a glass from the point of which fusters a little white pennon as a gage of peace to the Spanish. Behind them dressed in the rear of the procession at the end of long ropes are calves and newly take up their position by the stone and await the arrival of the Spaniards.

They are soon visible in the distance. At the head of a man rides on a great white, who waves a red pennon at the French. Behind him on foot the mayor bim waits the sicaide of lasbe. the principal town in the valley of Bosost, who following him comes the alcides of the other villages, their staffs of office in their hands. Behind the staffs of the procession convicts of shepherds, with their pastorals, and a band of musicians and matachins.

The Spaniards halt in all gravitee to behold in a loop black garment Decorated by gold lacings and white ruff, tight fitting knee breeches, red silk stockings and shoes with silver buckles—he is Don Pedro Sanchez, who summons over his head, and in his hands the keys of the fortress of which he commanders, the sunburnt in spats of magistrate's office.

As soon as the Spaniards reach the tendersons the mayor of Bosost goes up to the front and addresses them in not unfriendly terms:

"Are you come to pay tribute and swear fealty to our sovereign lord in accustom and tradition?"

"That is the reason of our coming," answer the French.

Then the standard bearers approach the boundary stone and lay their pikes crosswise upon it. After a few moments the Spaniard takes his pennon from the top of the pike and sets then places it as before on the stone. The two standard bearers then march the representatives of the two valleys over the loop the peace with hearty mind

Their fetters the delivery of the three calves to the Spaniards. They are examined by a veterinary surgeon and accepted, and the innocent lose not up their existence under a sturdy ox. And, following the example of the chief, Lords of France and Alfonso the Fifth of Spain, the sicaide of lasbe introduce himself among the assembled mats of the ox and severs the head at a unlaborious

Blackbirds and aesthetes pass before him and prefer their international contribution. The judge listens to both sides hears bring forward their witnesses and delivers judgment without delay, inflicting a fine on one, a wearing imprisonment on another, punishing and rewarding satisfaction to no victim. Then he declares the session closed, and invites underlaces the appointment of the next session and the judge of the peace to that he enjoys even greater authority than the township of Hermes in the president of the republic himself. Finally they all sit down together to a Spanish meal, where a Homeric feast is held, and all may be sure that the amount gave on the two-cubits of he out of which the tribute calves afterwards contribute to brotherly unity in numerous quantities of the consumption of ounce of 1725 and the installation of the three commissioners.

About 20 years after this treaty had been made the people of Aran began to pay the tribute, but after some negotiations the treaty was overthrown by its more modern times they tried to get the tribute commuted to a sum of money. But the Spaniards declined, and insisted to freeze the living of grass in the valley of Aran, and the tribute is presented to French saucer proprie.—London Spectator

"Ohn, that's it, eh! So you have a first class license to see an Mrs. Haverford's champion. I have heard that her favorite sitter!"

Kershaw approached a step nearer. "You dare to suggest——"

"Don't get your dander up, sweetheart, the other, "I shall be as hot beneath you are her protector at the protection of her husband's honor, but as my friend. We stand on even ground."

"Oh!" Kershaw threw his head back—and Kershaw examined his words with a slash of his ribbon whip full in Thornton's face.

"I think you are entitled to my explanation, sir," responded the other, recovering himself quickly.

"My time here is short, as you know," Kershaw said.

"Long enough for my purpose, I reckon. The fact that Mrs. Ashley is mile or so—is a convenient place. In an hour from now it will be time enough to shift our weapons."

"I'll be there by an hour with a friend!" cried Kershaw.

Nobody in Charleston slept that night of April 11-12. At the Ellingham house, as at Fleetwood, the scene of another house of luxury and pride there were flashes of other afternoon white knot people up and about until long past midnight.

Then in the early hours of that fateful Friday in a house of rocket haste between Forts Johnson and Moultrie began. Every one knew what was imminent. The men, some of them without enquiring to change their evening clothes, disappeared with strange, almost ominous alacrity. The women huddled in whispering groups or brought agonized questions with outdoor points of vantage watched instantly across the dark waters of the bay and lagoon of Sumter, like a warning finger, pointed coldly and white, the stars in the balmy dusk of the southern spring time sky.

The airport departure of Thornton and Lieutenants West and Ellingham, accompanied, as it appeared, by Mrs. Ellingham and one or two of the young men to witness it, had not failed to attract attention and excite comment. Mrs. Haverford by discreet inquiry among the household servants, obtained a startling idea of what which she hastened to communicate in confidence to Catherine Gray.

"There are trees in your eyes, Gertrude," said Miss Farrell sympathetically.

"They have no right there," returned the girl, with a pitiful flash of the old spirit that contrasted with the second look on her unwontedly pale face.

"I am afraid I know—and what has happened to Lieutenant West in those last few minutes. Gertrude—forgive a woman who has had more experience than you—but you are not the kind of girl for—what happened between you and him when you were together for the last time, maybe he—who knows how long! Let him part you if he must in a soldier quarrel. What is pride or reputety at such a moment?"

"Another rebel," cried Madeline West, flitting from somewhere in the outer darkness to the side of any one knew where this time where Lieutenant Ellingham was. "He excused himself for a minute and he has been gone an hour and a half. He promised to be here before—"

"Oh, Lieutenant West," Mrs. Haverford joined in with mid-sunked nerves, "I—"

"Oh, come a load, sailors, nevertheless stifle more than over the top."

"Look," screamed Gertrude Ellingham, jumping up in a frenzy of excitement. "Did you see that fire of fire against the sky. That was no rocket—that was a shell. It has struck the fort!"

At the same instant there was a loud clatter of horses' hoofs outside and Bob Ellingham dashed up the front steps

"Sullie has fired the shot!" he cried, throwing the rein up his sir. "Shall there goes another one. They have opened fire on Sumter sure enough!"

"Where is Mr. West? Mr. Thornton? The doctor?" demanded the three women, all in a breath.

"They are—no where—doesn't replied. That's what I rode back ahead to tell you. It's all right. The second shot hit Thornton and Kershaw hasn't a scratch. He'll be along with the doctor directly. Sullie swore he 'shall fire the first'."

"For heaven's sake, Robert, what are you talking about?" pleaded Gertrude, and I want you. Where is Mr. Ivy and compose yourself and tell us what has happened. You say that"—

"Kershaw and Thornton have met in—in a duel. You see, Beauregard has built or 4,000 men under arms, and Ft's Sumter is called to the general headquarters and he will at the South Carolina storm troops are mobilized in every part of the South. It was the decisive beginning of what all now know to be inevitable war.

When Colonel Haverill received news the calmness pending over the country his own personal affairs and many more such into insignificance. It was the same with the other non-combatants and the personal greetings and exchanges of their last evening together were courtesy and kindness.

Lieutenant Ellingham, Robert and Madeline, along the battery walk by the sea wall, to be inspected and guarded—and posing, white folk and black, view for the last time the old Revolutionary Troops came pouring into Charleston and were held in reserve, for the present mainly manning the score of batteries that in a few hours were to open more than smoke. Civilians of various descriptions were arriving from the rebellion on horseback, afoot and in every available vehicle, and the provincial convergence. Far out seaward Major Anderson was maintaining on his Federal government for the relief of the beleaguered fortress, and it was known that the relief would also make an attempt to throw re-enforcements into the place.

Meanwhile Major Anderson, within the fort and surrounded by a host of foes, long after daylight, when garrisons usually were astir and breakfast began to appear in the masonry of the fort, was still within his quarters, apart from the starters struck, and smoke and flames from burning quarters had by a favor wrought within.

When he was dressed and ready," as they said, Anderson opened fire with the batteries commanding the mouth of Confederate batteries on Mount Pleasant and a simultaneous salute from the forts next. Then he brought into action the guns from landing from Cummins Meadville with such effect that several of the latter's guns were eventually silenced.

The firing continued all day and in the afternoon Major Anderson, the latter had no ammunition to waste. One of the magazines had been exploded by the Confederate shells. The latter have practically ceased fire, as it attempt to carry away the colors, but all day there had been a steady fire from the morning of the 13th dawned the flag was still there. At last, noon hour of that second day, a successful shot was made and the staff of the flag had been hanging by a single halyard, fell. Only the flag remained. It was quick to take it again, reposing the shattered flagstaff with a gun.

In that brief interval Major Anderson and his men had been surrounded by the Charlestonians concluded that the fort had surrendered. As the flag fell, in the name of General Beauregard, the aide to the young officer of offer Anderson the most favorable terms of capitulation—terms which by permission to salute the flag and to march out with the honors of war with their arms and private baggage. Under these conditions the fort and its flame having won him the best possible terms and knowing that further resistance would mean useless sacrifice of life, Major Anderson without hesitation accepted the terms offered by Sumter and entered into negotiations for the surrender of the fort.

President Lincoln had called for 75,000 men. Without a moment's delay the combination of the southland and its forces was to be duly counted on to meet it.

"Lieutenant West," said Colonel Haverill, handing the young officer a stamped paper, with full military formality, "I have received the new navy prospective north—here to yours in his order of the day. Lieutenant Colonel Smart with Mrs. Haverill to move Col will report to Captain Lyon of the Second regiment in St. Louis."

his hand on the shoulder of Lieutenant Robert Ellingham, as if he hated to speak the words that meant a long parting.

Both felt less restraint in going over the storm ground again when the time of unwarning came for him and Kershaw.

"Our aim is to be the chief battle ground, according to friends' predictions," he said, with the weight of fifty years resting on his shoulders, "and it is Virginian. "But every hoist son of Virginia will follow her flag. It is our religion."

"That may be all right for you, Bob —I am not blaming you," responded Lieutenant. "But my state is New York. If New York had gone back on the old flag—your father's and mine—I should have felt it my duty to Fled's my religion."

ATTACKED BY ANGRY HORSE

B. F. Rouse, of Bondersville, Picked up and Shaken by Angry Horse. Seriously Injured. Horse Beaten with Pitchfork.

Attacked by an angry stallion O. P. House, of Bendersville, was severely bitten and injured late Thursday afternoon and is confined to his bed at home. That he was not fatally hurt was due to the timely intervention of Harry Shriver, of Hanover, who struck the animal a terrific blow with a pitch-fork and thus broke it to the ground.

Mr. House was leading the horse from the stable when it started to become unruly and, in order to quiet it he struck the animal with a stick. Before the latter realized what was going on, the stallion had caught the arm between his teeth and lifted the man in the air. Time after time the horse reared on its hind feet, still holding Mr. House by the arm and shaking him as a dog would a rat. Finally the man was lifted from his feet the horse struck with his front feet at him and several times have inflicted fatal injuries with its shoe but his attempts to strike Mr. House been successful.

Several men saw the affair but were powerless to render aid until Mr. Shriver came to the rescue. He picked up the pitchfork and struck the maddened animal with a terrific force back of the ear. The horse dropped to the ground and let go its hold of Mr. House's arm. He was carried to his home and a physician summoned.

Examination showed that the horse's teeth had sunk deep into the fleshy part of his arm and his shoulder is very painfully hurt. The nerves in the wrist have been held by the teeth of the animal and shoulder as he was carried with them when he was lifted. He is badly bruised where the horse's front knees struck him in the side.

While no serious results are anticipated it is expected that Mr. House will be unable to attend to his duties for some days.

CARSTOWN

D. A. Mickley is improving his property. He has made over the upper the buildings and other repairing. He will also repaint his house here is town Harrisburg and has gone out on the farm. There will be quite a number of gardens and lots to plough for the Spring. Quite a number of the Tory gather have ten horses and mules so they can work a number of a few different lots in a day so it does not take so long to get over the farm as that many teams. The mules are getting so used to one another that they whinny when they get into different lots. The boys who are working these teams will soon have to learn how they got to plowing alone with one team.

The Carstown Sunday School Strawberry Canoe, of Chambersburg, who had been stopping at Hotel Rocktop in this place a few days, departed, had his team ordered out front to start on the road. The horses were tied to the post with a chain which was used for that purpose. The animals got its head under the chain which caused it to break loose and start up the pike with the buggy. Before he struck the mountain the horse stopped and waited for the boys. The lines were both broken from the bridle.

DR. O'NEAL IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal Dies at his Home on Carlisle Street in Ninety Third Year. Led an Active Life Major Part of Same.

Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal, one of Pennsylvania's oldest physicians and one of Gettysburg's most honored residents died at his home on Carlisle street at 11:00 Tuesday night aged 92 years and 3 days.

Dr. O'Neal's excellent health with which he was endowed during a long and active life continued almost to the end and he was able to be about until a few weeks before his death.

During Dr. O'Neal's career as a physician he came into close touch with scores of Gettysburg families and those, together with his many other friends, held him in the highest esteem. He was honored by any one as was shown by the earnest solicitude of his large circle of friends during the illness of the past several weeks which finally resulted in his death.

For the greater portion of his life in Gettysburg he resided on Baltimore street but a few years ago he gave up his home there in order to allow the use of that section for the new federal building. Since then he resided on Carlisle St. Dr. O'Neal was successful not only in his profession but in his affairs of business. He was public spirited and progressive, taking a keen satisfaction in everything that made for the betterment of the town. But his interests lay not here alone and he was widely known in the state through his membership in prominent organizations and participation in other activities. He was uniformly courteous—the typical "old school gentleman"—and his death means the loss of one of Gettysburg's most esteemed residents.

Dr. O'Neal was born in Fairfax County, Virginia, of Irish and American parentage. He received his classical education at Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, and he later took up the study of medicine with Dr. John Swope of Tanneytown, and N. R. Smith, of Baltimore. He attended the medical department of the University of Maryland and received his degree of doctor of medicine from that institution in 1844. In the spring of that year he settled in Hanover which he made his home for five years, moving to Baltimore in 1848 he finally came to Gettysburg in 1863 and made his home here since that time.

He rendered valuable service to wounded soldiers at both Antietam and Gettysburg and enjoyed a large practice in this town and county. He was one of the founders of the Adams County Medical Society, its first treasurer and later its president. Dr. O'Neal was a member of the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the American Medical Association. He contributed many valuable articles to medical journals and was widely recognized as a physician of ability.

For three years during his residence in Baltimore Dr. O'Neal was a commissioner of public schools in that city and during that period was examiner physician of the Twenties Ward.

In 1877 and 1880 he was delegate from Pennsylvania to the Maryland State Medical Society; and for many years he was a member of the Board of Commissioners of Public Charities of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, taking office in 1881 and serving continuously for almost a quarter of a century. He was one of the delegates to the National Medical Association from this state in 1884 and his membership in that body dated from that time. He also represented this state in the Thirteenth National Conference of Charities and Correction at St. Paul Minnesota, in 1886.

Dr. O'Neal and Miss Ellen Wirt, daughter of Henry Wirt, of Hanover, were married in 1847. Mrs. O'Neal died a number of years ago and he leaves five children, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, of Taneytown; Mrs. J. T. Biddle, of Washington, D. C.; Dr. Walter H. O'Neal, Miss Katie O'Neal and Miss Annie O'Neal of Gettysburg.

Funeral service at his late home at 10:00 o'clock Monday morning, conducted by Dr. T. J. Barkley. The body will be taken to Hanover leaving Gettysburg at 12:45 Mixed Train Service. The interment at Hanover will be private.

CHARLES E. GILBERT

Charles Edward Gilbert died suddenly on Thursday evening about 9:15 at his home on West Middle street aged 75 years, 8 months and 21 days.

"Major" Gilbert, as he was generally known, had been in failing health for several months but was able to be about and had been down town during the morning. He realized his condition for some time but said he felt sure he would live until after the latter-day anniversary celebration and was looking forward to it with great pleasure. Thursday evening shortly after nine o'clock members of the family were helping him to get ready to retire and as he laid his head on the pillow it was noticed that a most unusual was wrong. Mrs. Gilbert spoke to him but there was no reply and in a moment it was seen that he was dead.

Mr. Gilbert was born in Gettysburg and spent his early life as a cooper maker. He enlisted at the outbreak of the Civil War in the famous Iron Brigade Company K, 1st Pennsylvania. He re-enlisted and served throughout the entire war in this organization being transferred in 1864 to the 190th Pennsylvania Volunteers with which the Pennsylvania was disbanded. For meritorious conduct he was given the known battlefield golden in Gettysburg and his greatest pride was in the fact that he was a war time. Through his business of taking people over the field for forty years he became well known and he was widely known.

He was born in Hampton and Miss Mary A. Snyder of Straban township were married in 1865 and lived happily together with the following children, George E. Gilbert, of Chambersburg; Mrs. Harry Bushman, of George E. McClellan, Harry C. Gilbert, Edward T. Gilbert and Charles D. Gilbert, of Gettysburg. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Emma Bream, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Elizabeth Browning and Mrs. Sadie Bowman, of Washington.

Funeral at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. Services will be conducted by Rev. L. Dow Ott. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

JOHN W. HEAGEY

John W. Heagey was found dead in bed at his home on Liberty street by his wife at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Death was caused by a form of heart trouble. He was aged 57 years, 9 months and 27 days.

Mr. Heagey had frequently complained of a severe pain in his side but he always found relief from following the use of a liniment. He most likely would never ask the services of a physician. Between one and two o'clock Wednesday morning Mrs. Heagey found her husband walking to a chair and asked him what was the matter. He told her that he had a very acute pain and thought the safest course for her was not send for a doctor, answered that she was sure it would come on and always had before. After resting for a short time he again went to bed and this was the last Mrs. Heagey awoke, she found him dead.

Mr. Heagey was well known about town and had many friends. For some time he has been engaged at the Hotel Wabash livery.

He leaves his wife who, before marriage, was Miss Ella Bushman, of Biglerville and three children, William D. Heagey of Gettysburg, Charles A. Heagey of Iowa and Mrs. George McCleaf, of Fairfield.

Funeral from the house at 10 o'clock Saturday morning conducted by Rev. C. W. Baker. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

MISS IZZIE STARNER

Miss Izzie Starner, of Bonneauville, died suddenly about eight o'clock Tuesday morning while she was preparing to go for from her home. Heart trouble, of which she had complained at various times, is supposed to be the immediate cause of her death.

Miss Starner for a number of years resided with Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Wolf, Bonneauville, and was known to John Block's store at Barlow and seemed to be in her usual health. In her conversation with Mr. Block she spoke of wanting to go to the home of Wolf William Rose, and Clayton Myers offered to take her in his buggy. They had gone only about a half mile when Miss Starner complained of feeling very ill and Mr. Coover quickly tied the horse to the fence at the side of the road and hurried to the home of Mrs. John Sherrary, nearby, for help. Mrs. Sherrary and George Althoff, who happened to be driving along, hurried to the buggy but the sick woman was unconscious when they reached her side and did not know them for she died at the home of Mrs. Starner, her sister-in-law.

Miss Starner had been living at Barlow for a number of years. She was about 47 years old and was a sister brother, William Starner.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. John Starner Thursday morning at nine o'clock. Interment will be made at Mount Joy cemetery.

PLACING EIGHT BRONZE STATUES

Large Bronze Statues of Lincoln Governor Curtin and Six Pennsylvania Generals now hers and to be Put in Place.

Eight large bronze statues are this week being placed about the massive Pennsylvania memorial on Hancock avenue, under the direction of General H. S. Huidekoper, chairman of the Pennsylvania Monument Commission and W. B. Van Amringe, of the Van Amringe Granite Company, of Boston.

On either side of the main entrance to the memorial will be the statues of Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Curtin, the War Governor, while between the other columns will be those of Generals D. McM. Gregg, Alfred Pleasonton, George G. Meade, John Fulton Reynolds, Winfield Scott Hancock and David B. Birney. All are fine pieces of the sculptor's art and were cast by the Gorham River Company of Providence, R. I.

The statues are eight feet in height and complete the memorial. An appropriation of $40,000 was made for these statues. Only one contract for a tablet about the monument and the placing of the walk would require other expenses. Had the commission purchased the bronze figures in the open market, it is stated they would probably have cost twice as much.

General Huidekoper is much interested in the fact that Curtin urged at Harrisburg for the erection of five other similar statues on the Gettysburg battlefield. An appropriation of $50,000 is asked for these which are also to be placed in height and placed on eight foot pedestals. They are of General Crawford to be placed near the Wheat Field; General Geary, on Culp's Hill; General Humphries, on the Emmittsburg road, General Gilsonn, near the Angle, and General Hays at the Peach. It is generally believed that the appropriation will be granted without trouble.

In addition to providing for the erection of these five bronze memorials the state will appear the cost of issuing a book in which will be given the photographs of all the statues and every tablet on the large Pennsylvania memorial, a page being used for each tablet and the publication providing a permanent memorial for every Pennsylvanian who fought at Gettysburg.

MOUNTAIN FIRES

Seventy-Five Acres State Land Are Burned Over.

Three fires on the mountains occurred Sunday afternoon.

The largest burned over about 75 acres of timber on the old Pass place, back of Vineyard hollow. The land belongs to the state. The fire occurred between two and three o'clock. The fire was on the land owned by C. O. ar, Fairview. The tract was purchased by Mr. Bancre from D. C. t and consisted of 26 acres of wood timber. The fire was discovered on fire and six o'clock. In each the fires was extinguished by t Ranger Harry Thomas, assisted by from the State forest academy and one of the wheels, by hard work. So the third fire occurred near Fairfield.

MORE TROUBLE IN EMMITSBURG

Liquor Licenses Agitation Creates Still Further Disturbances in Heighboring Towns. Responsive Suits Promised.

Aftermaths of the stirring times at Emmitsburg on Wednesday are beginning to appear. Suits are to be entered by Breichner, who conducts the Emmitt House at Emmitsburg, filed a petition with the Adams County Court for a writ of mandamus to compel Attorney Reed Keefer, and another suit was to be entered by Breichner against Chester T. Fagan, sheriff of Frederick county and by the time this issue of the paper is out these suits will be filed.

The suits were filed by Wood and Wood, attorneys, and were filed by the filing only and gave no information as to the grounds or the amount of damages to be asked. It is understood that the suits have grown out of objections presented to the last about $5,000 damages will be asked in each case.

Edward H. Rowe, burgess of Emmitsburg, who was placed under arrest by Constable Hessler was taken up and taken to Frederick under a $25 fine for contempt of court, was to Frederick Saturday morning and announced that it was his intention to contest the case. Rowe is a man of presence, who had part in his arrest, and he will be called upon to pay the $5,000 damages in each case, claiming that the whole proceeding was not in conformity with law.

Breichner is still in command of the Emmitt House, it is understood, and it is said that the suit of Dr. Kelly, who leased the building, is a subterfuge measure determine the grounds taken by the burgess on Wednesday and also the presence of Dr. Kelly at the meeting.

Edward H. Rowe, of Emmitsburg, Saturday filed with the Clerk of the County Hanry Bueschler, a petition to license being issued to George W. Biddinger,who desires a license to keep a hotel in Emmitsburg. Signers at the Hotel Slagle, Emmitsburg.

Mr. Rowe alleges that Biddinger is not a legal resident of Emmitsburg. He also charges that C. Rotering and Mr. Brooke Boyle, signers of Biddinger's application are not freeholders as required by law.

PASS HUNTERS LICENSE BILL

Adams County Hunters Take Keen Interest in Bill which has Been Approved by Governor and is now in Effect.

The Davis hunters' license bill, followed by more Adams County people than any other bill in the entire legislature, on Friday became law in Pennsylvania by Governor Tener's approval of the bill and the issuance of the first except upon land owned or leased by the person to taken out a license costing a dollar and displays upon his person the tag bearing the number of his license.

Under the provisions of the bill it applies to all citizens of the State and their sons. Residents of other States are not required to take out licenses and foreigners not naturalized citizens are not allowed to hunt firearms.

The license costs a dollar and may be taken out before any county treasurer. The law does not require any written application. No person under 16 may hunt with a gun, and no one under 16 without consent of parent or guardian, in writing. In addition to the three fines is to be issued a tag bearing the license number in figures not less than one inch high, to be worn upon the arm between elbow and shoulder. The tag is to be worn by the holder of the license is hunting.

Violation of the law is made punishable by a fine of $20, but the act is not to apply to any person having a right to hunt on his own land, in defense or for shooting at a target or any bona fide shooting club or any club or member of family of such person from hunting on his own lands.

ORMSBY VERSUS ORMSBY

By MARY RUCKWOLDER

Fred Ormsby had a lot of theories in his head. One was that economy meant want of novelty. For instance, he said suppose a woman is trying happily with her household; if a man more and have access to her, her love for his former would not survive the distractions of the latter. As to her love for the man who succeeded her in his wife's heart—married, that was a matter of principle that love also survived. Love he takes out a fresh lease on. Fred was a bachelor.

BAND OF HOPE

Medal Contest Exercises in Brua Chapel by Boys and Girls.

A very pleasant entertainment was given Friday evening in Brua Chapel by the Band of Hope to a medium sized audience. It consisted of recitations, drills, songs and an oratorical contest for a medal, which is awarded annually. The declamations by the contestants were given at intervals between the other numbers. One of the best performed was the one entitled "Uncle Sam's Vision." "A Sensible Girl" by Mossley Boyer was the orderly attractive and a fine dog figured in the part. The judges for the oratorical contest were Mr. Brosius, Mr. Rotz, and Mr. Oney and when they announced their decision the medal was awarded to Miss Pauline Lentz with honorable mention to Miss Ruth Aumen. Seldom has a child of her age given a more perfect performance than was given by little Miss Lentz. The entertainment was in charge of Mr. Slaike, of Gettysburg, and Mr. Miller, of the ones of 75 in College, who are carrying on the work in the Band of Hope.

FOUND OLD COIN

While digging in the garden at his home in Dover township, York county, several days ago, Samuel Emanuel unearthed a coin of 1862, at the same spot where his grandfather, Samuel Hake, buried his money and other valuables during the Civil War. When preparations were made for the battle of Gettysburg Mr. Hake, as many others, hid his money by burying it in the garden. It is believed that the old coin found was one left by his grandfather.

WILL MEET HERE MAY 15 AND 16

Battle Anniversary Commission with Representatives from Various States Will Meet here about Middle of May.

The Pennsylvania commission on the celebration of the semi-centennial of the battle of Gettysburg on Friday night authorized a call to the representatives of the National and State Governments in charge of proper celebrations for the summer next July.

The conference will be held at Gettysburg on May 15 and 16, at which the final arrangements for the big gathering of veterans will be made. At that time each State will be asked to give the exact number of its veterans who will attend. The appointment of space by States in camp to accommodate 40,000 veterans will follow immediately after the number of visitors is ascertained.

The commission named the Governor, Colonel James D. Schoonmaker, chairman; Governor Tener, Bear and Captain John P. Green as a committee to organize a hospitality program for the celebration, and contracts were authorized to be let for a tent to hold over ten thousand persons.

The bills carrying $500,000 for Pennsylvania's part in the celebration were approved by the Governor Friday and steps will now be taken to provide transportation for the veterans, are authorized to be cared for at the camp and those entitled to transportation. These will be furnished only to the veterans and not to their families, each veteran being required to furnish satisfactory proof of identity and service in the Civil War.

GAME SEASONS

Signs Measure Which Changes Several Seasons.

Governor Tener on Saturday approved the bill fixing seasons for several kinds of game, as follows:

Grey, black and fox squirrels, wild turkey, wild grouse, Hungarian partridge, woodcock and English or Chinese ring-necked pheasants, from October 15 to November 30, inclusive; gray rabbit and hare, from November 1 to December 15, inclusive; provided that game raised in captivity and killed within place of confinement without being released may be killed at any time and may be sold under the rules and regulations regarding the marking and tagging of game as if used for propagation.

The penalty for taking, killing or wounding in any fish for such squirrel or rabbit, provided that the penalty for taking a squirrel or rabbit in any manner except by gun is fixed at $10 instead of $50 as heretofore provided; and $20 for each offense in an alternative of one day in prison for each dollar of the fine for the first and fifth fines and for a second or any subsequent offense one day for each dollar in addition to the original penalty for first offense.

F. Mark Brown was the first Adams County hunter to take out a license under the new law. He registered Tuesday as "Number 1".

Senator Robert M. La Follette with several friends were visitors in Gettysburg this week. They registered at Hotel Gettysburg.

COLLEGE CHURCH ELECTS PASTOR

Rev. Charles R. Trowbridge, of Easton, Elected Pastor of College Church by Unanimous Vote. Will Likely Accept.

Rev. Charles R. Trowbridge, of Easton, was on Sunday elected pastor of the College Lutheran church as successor of the congregation's pastor, Rev. Dr. Lau, at the morning church service. Mr. Trowbridge was elected by a vote of 100 to 1, which was at once made unanimous. It is not known definitely whether he will accept, but it is stated that his acceptance is expected.

Rev. Mr. Trowbridge is widely known in Gettysburg where he graduated from the seminary in 1904, and from the seminary several years later. After entering the ministry he filled charges in Trenton, Easton and Baltimore and again in Easton. For a year past he has not been in the active ministry.

He is a regular contributor to the "Lutheran Observer" and conducts the Sunday Lenga News comment in that publication.

Mr. Trowbridge preached in the College Church several weeks ago, being among the number of out-of-town ministers invited by the church council to occupy the pulpit while the church was without a pastor. That he made a very favorable impression is shown by the vote of Sunday which the members of the student body, which is considered an important factor, was also given a vote.

Should Mr. Trowbridge accept the call to College church he will be the family will occupy the new parsonage now in course of erection on Stevens street, which it is believed they will come here several months before its completion. The present address of Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge and one son.

FROST PREDICTED

Unseasonably Cold Weather Also Promised in Forecast.

Unseasonably cold weather, with frosts in the higher altitudes, is generally warm weather throughout the Middle Atlantic States, except in the and the Rocky Mountain region and the Plains States west of the Mississippi, the Weather Bureau announced in its weekly forecast.

"For several days the cool weather several days in the Eastern and Middle States will be followed by unsettled weather, with local rains the first part of the week, and a decided increase in atmospheric pressure, the region of the Great Lakes and the Northwestern and States," says the forecast. "Then, so warmer weather will overspread the Eastern States from the Mississippi and the Ohio Valley Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The next storm of importance will appear in the Far West Tuesday or Wednesday, move northward and cross the great central valleys Thursday or Friday, and the Eastern States near the end or the week. This disturbance will be preceded by a period of rising temperature, be attended by showers and thunderstorms, and be followed by cooler weather. Frosts, probably heavy, will overspread the Northwestern States Thursday and Friday."

TELEPHONE SINGING

Harney Christian Endeavorers Sing in Several Adams County Churches.

On last Sunday evening and on Tuesday evening of this week the Junior Christian Endeavor society of Harney church at Harney met at the home of E. L. Hess and sang a number of selections. They were invited for S. S. Shoemaker, who is sick at his home near Westminster. Mr. Shoemaker was president of the society five years ago when the organization was started and moved away last Spring. He always seemed to be deeply interested in the welfare of the society and in his condition enjoys having them come to the telephone and sing for him.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE COLLEGE

College Campus a Busy Place these Days with New Walks and Many Other Changes in Course of Construction.

A large force of men is at work on the college campus making additions and improvements to various portions of the college property all of which are to be completed before commencement time.

On Thursday the construction of a concrete walk from the Old Dormitory to Glatfelter Hall was commenced. This walk is to be of the present Senior class and will run the greater portion of the way at the side of the main drive. The gift of the class will also include two large electric light standards at the entrance to Glatfelter Hall. Several other paths were considered one of which would have run from the center of the campus to Glatfelter Hall but all were abandoned.

A new lay-out of the campus is in contemplation, it is stated. In connection it is said, the glacing of the present driveway in the rear of the President's residence and the various fraternity houses but nothing definite has been decided upon. It is also understood that the work will not be undertaken before the fall of the present year.

Workmen are also busy at present time in tearing down the old Pennsylvania railroad station which has been used by the college for a number of years as a gymnasium. The material will be used in the construction of a new building for the athletic teams.

The contract for the new building has been awarded to Harry Bream, of Littlestown, and work will be started in a few days. The building will be of brick, with concrete pavement which is now being built along Washington street at the rear of the college. With the new gateway of brownstone and bricks, which is now under construction, it is believed this would make a very attractive entrance, though the gateway made necessary the removal of one of the oldest and finest trees on the college campus.

While these operations are in progress there is every reason to believe that more than ordinary vigor by cleaning up and beautifying the college environments about the various fraternity houses, and the campus is expected to take on the appearance of spring by the end of May.

Commencement this year is expected to bring back even more old graduates than usual, it is believed that it will be found necessary to erect a large tent for the alumni collation which will be served on the campus if in examination hall as has been the custom in the past.

120 DEAD IN MINE EXPLOSION

RESCUERS WORK IN RELAYS

They Are Encountering Great Difficulties and Have Little Hope of Finding Any Alive.

Washington, Pa., April 25.—The rescuers coming from the depths of the wrecked Cumberland mine of the Pittsburgh Coal company declare that the number of dead in the explosion will not run less than 120, with a possibility that the number may be greater than this.

That the exact number of dead may never be known seems highly probable, for the indications are that it will be impossible to reach many of the bodies.

Eighteen bodies have been brought out of the mine and taken to the morgue. It was stated that four more bodies have been located in the mine. The bodies found were not far from the entrance.

The rescue parties are hourly encountering great difficulties. The pumps are out of order and there is imminent danger of the mine flooding. Some of the drifts are running forty of water and others have clogged and overflowed. The rescue parties seeking bodies are working in a foot of water.

The government mine experts are reinforced by rescue crews from five different mines in the neighborhood, but the deadly fire damp badly has disease rapid progress.

It is now believed, although nothing official can be obtained, that the terrors two explosions, one close after the other. The first explosion is believed to have been of gas probably ignited by a shot with an open lamp. Soon after this it is thought there was a dust explosion, this second explosion probably causing many deaths.

Coroner James Herbert, himself a practical miner of many years' experience, adopted it on his investigation of the accident. He empanelled a jury and the inquest will be held at one of the mine visiting various parts of the workings and interviewing survivors.

HANGMAN BUNGLED

Rope Was Too Long and Man Was Hanged Head First.

Uniontown, Pa., April 24.—Due to bungling by the hangman at once, John Harris, a colored man, condemned to death for murder, met with the humanity that is supposed to characterize hanging.

Harris was placed on the scaffold at the county jail here and when it was sprung the rope was about three feet too long to give him fall to the ground beneath the scaffold, and with the rope around his neck and his hands and knees, when he remained motionless for several minutes.

It was thought the drop had broken his neck until he started to rise to his feet. Then the sheriff and his deputies jumped to the scaffold, pulled up Harris' body and this time until his feet were clear of the flooring.

For eighteen minutes the condemned man struggled and twisted, his contortions exciting the human agony of the strangling to death. Harris shot and killed a colored man last May.

STOLE $30,000 IN BRASS

Company Alleges $60 a Month Man Sold Material.

Cleveland, O., April 25.—Indictments charging embezzlement and grand larceny were returned by the county grand jury against Peter F. Seiss, a $60 a month store clerk at the Cleveland Furnace company.

The company charges that in stole $30,000 worth of brass from it, selling the metal in the form of junk and sold to junk dealers.

In connection with the case Nathan Kemlin, a wealthy junk dealer, was indicted on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Seiss has been living in luxury in a fashionable apartment for the last two years.

German Aviator Killed.

Berlin, Germany, April 25. — Herr Daneta, a German aviator, was killed at the Johannisthal aerodrome, in Charlottenburg, by falling from a considerable height while flying in his aeroplane. Princess Eugenia Sizkofskaya, a certified wooden air pilot, had Xenofoff Alexandrovich, a Russian airman, also killed while flying in a biplane at Johannisthal, and both were injured.

Death Sentence as Woman Commuted

Trenton, N. J., April 25.—The court of pardons in a special session commuted the death sentence of Mrs. Madeline Coccoro, of Newark, to life imprisonment. The woman was convicted in Essex county for the murder of her husband and was sentenced to die in the electric chair next week.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 25.—Ira Appel, thirteen years old, son of Gomry Appel, of this city, was struck in the sight eye by a stone while playing with companions, an eyeball was cut in two and the wound is of so severe a nature that doctors say the sight has been permanently destroyed.

LAWRENCE O. MURRAY.

Comptroller of Currency, Who May Quit.

COMPTROLLER READY TO QUIT

Murray Refuses to Comment on Banking Circulars.

Washington, April 25.—Comptroller of the Currency Murray declined to comment on Secretary McAdoo's statement that the presence of a clerk representing the National City bank in the comptroller's office to collect statistical information was "improper and irregular" except to say that the secretary's statements in regard to conditions of the practice would be obeyed.

Mr. Murray's five-year term expires on Saturday, and the comptroller indicated that he would leave the government service then, even if his successor has not been appointed.

MAY ACCUSE SON IN KILLING FATHER

Edward Hummel May be Tried For Murder.

Pottsville, Pa., April 25. — Berth Hummel, who was arrested by state police, charged with the murder of his father at Tower City, will likely be tried at the May session of criminal court.

It is now said that the girl's brother, Edward, who was arrested as a witness, may be tried as an accomplice. It is said Edward is unable to account for his movements on the night the shots were fired which killed his father. The girl is said to have been present at the scene of the murder at the time.

One of the strongest reasons the police have for believing that the elder Hummel was murdered is the fact that the man owned two revolvers, one of which was found near the scene, while the revolver bought by the son of that name by his side when he was found dead.

There was the motive which might have actuated Bertha Hummel in firing the shots that killed her father. She did not appear clearly to the average person on the outside, although the authorities no doubt have their own opinion of it and will be prepared to put it light at the May term of criminal court, if they decide to try the case then.

GIVE SKIN TO SAVE FATHER

Two Sons Submit to Operation to Save Parent.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 25.—Leon, Jr., and Benjamin Thomas, sons of Leon Thomas, Sr., of this city, submitted to an operation for skin grafting, by which the surgeons secured cuts from their bodies and grafted to the sores of their father, with the hope of saving his life.

The latter suffered from a lag, carbuncle on the back, and for two cold this city. The only hope for recovery was an operation. The sons were willing to give of their skin, and as it was needed to cover the father's sores, and as it was necessary to secure cuts from their bodies, twelve in all, the operation was performed. Tonight the operation was successful and the father is resting easily.

Legislature Vote to Raise Own Salaries

Harrisburg, Pa., April 25. — The house passed finally the Curtis bill to increase the pay of members of the legislature from $1500 to $1800. It now goes to the senate. The only way to pass it, but it is doubtful whether Governor Tener will approve it.

Washington, April 25 — President Wilson appointed William H. Berry to be collector of customs at the port of Philadelphia. Edward D. Ilearan, a Democrat, was appointed collector for the state and other departments.

AUSTRIA MAY ATTACK SCUTARI

Sends Ultimatum to the European Powers.

SITUATION LOOKS SERIOUS

Declares She Will Drive Montenegrins Out if Powers Don't Take Immediate Action.

London, April 25.—"Take immediate combined action to turn the Montenegrins out of Scutari or we shall do it alone," declares a circular note sent by the Austrian government yesterday to the powers. The note is virtually an ultimatum.

Austria-Hungary declares she can no longer delay intervention in view of the decision of the great powers. The powers of the European concert have been violated, says the note, and Austria-Hungary demands that the powers decide promptly on the steps to be taken to restore that prestige. Then Austria declares that if the powers should be unable to reach a speedy decision then she will herself execute the will of Europe is respected and that the Montenegrins evacuate Scutari.

Scutari is from today Montenegrin. The powers have given King Nicholas to the European nations to surrender but he will not. Turkish citadel. The king made this statement in a speech delivered over the balcony of the royal palace in Cettinje Among the thousands that the people of the Balkan states, who came to congratulate him. He added: "Should Europe still think of snatching Scutari from Montenegro, which has given her own blood to take it, Europe will have to begin the task with my people first. There are many indications that the German government has been informed of the European situation as critical. A high diplomatic official in Berlin said: "Europe has entered another crisis as a result of the Balkan war and the action Russia demobilization."

The "grave hurness" of the situation forbids delay, according to the circulation, was not prepared with a view to such a step but was due to the ultimatum to Montenegro or to the greatest straits. At the same time it believed it probable that force would have to be employed to drive the Montenegrins from Scutari. The official circular says that all the European powers will work together until the object is attained.

A feeling of consternation and helplessness prevailed in diplomatic circles, the countenance of the ambassadors indicating the gravity of the situation here. In Berlin, the representatives of all the powers except Russia, assembled at the foreign office shortly after midnight to take counsel. The powers were unprepared with a view to such a step but was due to the ultimatum to Montenegro or to the greatest straits. It is reported that the Triple Entente powers, Great Britain, Russia and France, have refused to discuss Austro-Hungarian demands and will chase powers encourage Austria to attack Montenegro. Austria-Hungary now Italy is advising a humane course. Montenegro has suffered heavy warships in the Adriatic. Montenegrin outrages and defiance seems to have encouraged the title of optimism in some quarters.

TO FREE ORTIE M'MANIGAL

Confessed Dynamiter and McNamara Witness to Be Released.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 25.—Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter and chief witness for the state in the Namara brothers, who has been in custody since the time of his arrest, will be released within thirty days, a result of the decision reached in the district attorney's office.

McManigal himself said that he had no information regarding prospective release, but admitted that when he has turned state's evidence against the McNamaras and others he will be free because his conscience and not for any consideration of money.

McManigal, it is understood, will be given the liberty without bond or bail and he will make his way promptly to Indianapolis, where he will be released to "start life over again."

Man Killed in Strike Riot.

Hopedale, Mass., April 25.—The first fatality in the strike of 1,000 lace workers at the plant of the Draper company, which began on March 24, occurred when an unidentified striker was shot and killed by a deputy sheriff who fired a pistol on the outskirts of the town. The deputy was arrested on bail of $5,000 for a few minutes, but no other person was arrested.

Baby Washed 300 Feet Through Pipe

Johnstown, Pa., April 25 — Eric Nemans, aged 2 years, was rescued and resuscitated after being washed through an eight-inch pipe for 300 feet. The child's father was digging a trench and fell into the water a few feet above where the creek enters the culvert.

Snowstorm in Texas.

Amarillo, Tex., April 25.—Driven by a fierce north wind, a snowstorm, the heaviest of the season, is raging here. The storm came from the Texas-Oklahoma panhandle. The fall is piled up to a depth of two inches in this city. Damage to fruit trees and crops is feared.

WILSON CONFERS ON PATRONAGE

Meets Senators and Representatives at Capitol.

Washington, April 25. — President Wilson's visit to the capitol — the third in his eight months in office — was another pre-event-breaking trip.

Mr. Wilson's decision to go into the capitol to read their addresses or messages as Mr. Wilson did, but there was no record of any other precedent going back to the days of talking about speakerships.

The president told friends that the announcement of waiting for the senate to go to the White House to receive a great loss of time, so he proposed to go to the senate chamber, where he might confer with senators on the "plums" to be distributed.

Senator Bore was the president's first caller. Senators Shepherd and Reed of Missouri followed. Representative Hobbs and Goodwin, of Arkansas; Hughes, Howard and Bell, of Georgia; Decker, Alexander and Stevens, of Mississippi, all asked Mr. Wilson to appoint Mr. Bell, of Chickasaw, Tennessee, postmaster at Memphis. Senator Shepherd said that "plums" had been set aside.

"He listened very politely and entered," was the reply.

The refusal of the president's first caller. Senators Shepherd and Reed of Missouri followed. Representative Hobbs and Goodwin, of Arkansas; Hughes, Howard and Bell, of Georgia; Decker, Alexander and Stevens, of Mississippi, all asked Mr. Wilson to appoint Mr. Bell, of Chickasaw, Tennessee, postmaster at Memphis. Senator Shepherd said that "plums" had been set aside.

"He listened very politely and entered," was the reply.

PREPARE FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Usual Sunday Services and Observance on May Thirtieth. General Orders as to Manner of Observing the Day.

Arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day in Gettysburg indicate that the same general plan of other years will be followed. The sense of the orator of the day has not yet been announced but the parade and services by the National Cemetery will be the same as before.

On Sunday afternoon preceding Memorial Day the annual memorial service will be held in the Post Room and Rev. Charles Gardner, pastor of the United Brethren church, has been invited to deliver the sermon at that time. Rev. Fr. Boyle, rector of St. Francis Xavier church, is planning to follow the custom, inaugurated a year ago by Rev. Fr. Dougherty, of holding a special service in the Catholic cemetery on the evening of Sunday, May 25, at which time flowers will be strewn on the graves of veterans buried in that cemetery.

General order No. 9, Department of Pennsylvania Grand Army of the Republic, Thomas H. Cole commander-refers to the approaching Memorial Day and its proper observance. The Commander asks for a full observance under the rules and regulations of the department and asks the Sons of Veterans, the Women's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Daughters of Veterans and other patriotic societies to associate with them in the services.

Attention is also called to the previsions in the new National Headquarters that, as a part of the public exercises of Memorial Day, bells be tolled from 12:30 until 12:45 that flags be placed at half mast, and that the graves remain standing with uncovered heads during this period. As part of the ceremonies of Memorial Day, there will be read Lincoln's Gettysburg address, and General Order No. 11, dated May 5, 1868, issued by our first Commander-in-chief, John A. Logan, instituting Memorial Day.

Post commanders are ordered to see that the patriotic programs in the public schools be observed, as heretofore, on Friday, May 23, and that memorial services be held in the churches on the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, May 25.

The Department Commander includes this eloquent appeal in his order:

"It is for us, my comrades, we of the 'rear guard', who form a thin picket line to-day between safety of life's rugged march, we whose shadows are falling toward the East, and in whose ears the echo of 'taps' that have sounded for comrades that have gone before, on this Sabbath day of the Grand Army of the Republic, to pledge anew to our comrades, living or dead, to renew our obligation to cherish the memory of the fallen brave, and decorate with the choicest flowers of Spring the little green mounds under which they peacefully sleep, awaiting the reveille of the resurrection morn."

LAST IN LINCOLN PARTY

Was Member of Lincoln's Party at Cemetery Dedication.

The funeral of General Henry Clay Cochrane, who died suddenly last Sunday afternoon, took place at Chester Wednesday. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Francis M. Tate, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. A squad of soldiers from the Pennsylvania Naval Navy Yard acted as escort of honor, and a battalion of marines from Wilde Post, Grand Army of the Republic, attended the obsequies.

Taps were sounded over the grave in Chester rural cemetery. General Cochrane was the last survivor of the thirteen men who accompanied Abraham Lincoln to Gettysburg, when the National Cemetery was dedicated.

NO MORE STATE COPS

The bill to increase the State police force by 120 men, and advancing the salary of the Superintendent from $3000 to $5000 a year, was defeated in the House Tuesday, receiving 95 votes, or one less than the number required to pass.

CURB MARKET OPENING DAY

Few Wagons but Many Good Spring Vegetables at Curb Market for Opening Day of the Summer Season. More Later.

With a scant half dozen wagons on hand for the opening, the curb market season of 1913 was ushered in on Centre Square at o'clock Thursday morning. That the opening day chanced to full on a holiday is blamed in part for the small attendance while early risers say they saw hucksters violating the ordinance and selling their goods on the streets of town during market hours.

The farm raisers had the best of spring vegetables on hand when Market Master Miller rang his bell for the opening and it did not require long to dispose of desirable goods. Asparagus, usually scarce during the first ten days of the market, was for sale in abundance and of the finest quality, too. Of course onions were much in evidence and there was also lard, spinach, fall potatoes, dressed chickens, eggs and other goods. Prices were moderate and the buyers were quick to make their purchases.

The season promises to be a good one at market judging from the number of stalls engaged. Fifteen have sought places for the entire season, more than last year and a number of others have signified their intention of starting regularly about June first, not having as yet been built at that time.

Six o'clock will be the opening hour for the summer months, that time having been chosen after considerable experimente which did not prove satisfactory.

GIFTS FOR SCHOOL

Mr. Bushman Presented Numerous Gifts to Public Schools.

For more then an hour S. M. Bushman entertained the pupils of the High School on Monday morning with an interesting description of his travels through the Canal Zone. He presented to the school a number of gifts which will be placed in cases at the building. The gifts include a bamboo cane from Gatun Lake, a mahogany cane from the Canal Zone, a cane made from an island cactus in Venezuela, chip from the door of a wooden hut in Panama, a Mosquito's foot, vanilla beans from the Isle de Pinnos, cocoa beans in three stages of development from Port de France, piece of pitch from Trinidad, bamboo from Jamaica and numerous compass buried with two bodies on Island of Martinique, specimens of leave and stones. Mr Pelee, Martinique, was encrusted with lava, Mt. Pelee, marble from images in Cathedral, melted by Mt. Pelee lava; pebble, melted by same lava from Martinique, from Mt. Veuvrieu, bullets and arrow heads of the Wapa Indians. Mr. Bushman also gave a number of post cards required at places which he has visited.

GRANTED LICENSE

Dan Emmitsburg Licenae is Granted Other not Decided.

In Frederick County Court on Wednesday morning Judge Motter granted a license to George W. Biddinger, formerly of Woodsboro, who applied for a license to keep a hotel in Hotel Slagle, Emmitsburg. The court, however, refused to grant license to protest against a license being issued to L. L. Rowe, of Emmitsburg, who has leased the Emmitt House and who desires to sell liquor there. Testimony was presented at the hearing on Saturday showing that minors had access to liquor in the Emmitt House, which is now located at Hotel Slagle.

GASKINS' BAND COMING

Central Pennsylvania Organization to Bring Military Band.

Officers of the Third Regiment Sons of Veterans met in Sunbury on Sunday and decided to mobilize in that city on June 21, to take a special Pennsylvania train to the annual encampment at Gettysburg. The camp will continue from the 22 to 29. The Gaskins' Military Band of Sunbury, it is planned, will be taken along. The band was formerly connected by the regiment from Mahanoy City to Williamsport.

GREAT CASCADE STAIRWAY AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915.

GREAT CASCADE is the form of a staircase to the East or Festival Court in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. This court will be one of three great downs dividing the central group of exhibit palaces from north to south. The names of the cascade, springing from a mysterious source, will flow into two great pools below. The court, representing the Orient on the architectural scheme of the Spanish Renaissance, is designed for pageantry upon a colossal scale. The great tower, 354 feet high, at the northern entrance of the court, will contain a pipe organ with echo organs in the adjacent towers.

NOW UP TO COUNTY

If Adams County would Help Mothers it Must Contribute.

Governor Tener on Wednesday attached his signature to the so-called "mothers pension bill", by Senator John O. Sheetz, Philadelphia, providing monthly payments to indigent, widowed or abandoned mothers for partial support of their children; at home. It now becomes the duty of each co-operative when the Governor appointees not fewer than five nor more than seven women as administrators or Trustees in each county accepting the act.

The state is to assist the counties in the support of indigent children at home. At present, if parents are unable to maintain their children properly, the latter are supported by the counties in institutions or homes other than their own.

The act calls for an appropriation of $200,000 by the State for the next two years to the counties, the latter to contribute amounts equal to their apportionment.

Residents Near Pen-Mar Are Making Improvements.

Cottage owners on the mountain in the vicinity of Pen-Mar park, are beautifying to get their places in shape for the coming summer. James Purdy, proprietor of the trolley station, is much room, is completing the extension addition to his establishment. Another Holman, recently manager of the Dagmar hotel, Hagerstown, has leased the Climont cottage on the High Rock road, from J. M. Newcomer, for the summer. Mr. Holman is regrading the walks and mounds damaged by the recent rains. The skating rink which is being constructed near the trolley station, at Pen-Mar park, is well under way.

CONTINUE ROUTE

Congressman A. B. Brodbeck has been advised by Fourth Assistant Postmaster James I. Blakeslee that the star mail route operating between Dillsburg and Wellsville, will be continued. This is the route that it had been decided to discontinue and notice had been given to that effect. As this would have been a source of inconvenience in delayed mail services to the residents of Wellsville, upon protest the matter was re-considered with the result that the service will be continued as heretofore.

END OF COURT

April Term of Court in Close. One Case is Settled.

April term of Court came to an abrupt close on Tuesday afternoon when Judge Swope, on the civil suit of John E. C. Miller vs. J. McClain Gilbert had been settled by the parties concerned. In the morning a jury had been drawn and Court adjourned until afternoon but the settlement had been made when time to convene arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Will D. Mayer, of Harrisburg, announce the birth of a daughter.

MANY FAKIRS WILL BE HERE

Burgess Holtzworth Receiving Numerous Requests for Concessions at Time of the Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration.

If the numerous requests for concessions received by Burgess Holtzworth from various professional fakirs is to be taken at any indication, this town is going to be fairly overrun with that class of individuals at the time of the fiftieth anniversary celebration in July.

One request after another has been received by Mr. Holtzworth. One writer wants to buy the privilege of selling all the pop corn in the world, that is to be sold during the week. Another wants to buy the concession on all refreshment stands so that any others wishing to go into that sort of business would have to buy their rights direct from him. Still others ask for big privileges. Numerous requests are asked by those who wish to go into the thing on a smaller scale who want concessions for themselves alone. One wishes to get a peanut stand license, another the right to sell badges and so on. No privileges are to be granted until the parties arrive when the licenses will be issued to one favored.

Among the letters received by the Burgess is one from a professional fakir who has acquainted with all the best people in the business and he intimates that he would like the entire outfit to come to Gettysburg for the big week.

The town council authorized the drafting of a new fakirs' ordinance before the last one in force at that time has been taken on it. The plan will doubtless provide for an advance in fees and much revenue will come into the treasury which is sorely needed for that means. The backing licenses will also amount to more than ever before, it is believed, as the crowds will be responsible for the proposed street improvements will be much increased.

MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Has Not Determined the Act of 1907 Unconstitutional.

Examination of a copy of the opinion of Judge Rice of the Supreme Court shows that it was merely decided in the case of Commonwealth vs. that the provisions of the Act of 1907, had not been complied with; that an bill of indictment had been prepared and was entered upon the same by the defendant as required by the Act and therefore, the lower court had no authority to hear the evidence upon the defendant.

In the Court of this county the said Act of 1907 has been strictly complied with in all cases where the defendants waived the finding of a bill of indictment by the grand jury and entered a plea of guilty in the one prepared by the District Attorney.

The Act was not declared unconstitutional, but its validity directly recognized No change in the practice of the courts of this county will be necessary.

The opinion in all over the State have misinterpreted the finding of the Court and its effect.

FREAK CHICKEN

York County has a Chicken with Four Legs.

A freak chicken is the property of William Hoffman, of Jefferson County, having four perfectly formed legs. The chick was hatched a week and a half or four days old. It is of the Hamburg breed. Two legs are normal, on which the chicken moves about, while the other two are somewhat shorter, and are fastened to the body about the back of the legs on which the chicken walks. It is expected that the freak will live.

PLANNING FOR COMMENCEMENT

Fower Graduates to Make Speeches at High School Commencement. Will Shorten Program," Solons' Orations Subject.

High School commencement exercises to be held this year in Brua Chapel on the evening of Thursday May 29 are to be much shorter than those of former graduating classes and it is likely that, in addition to the customary class day features of the presentation of gifts, prophecy and so on, there will be only a few other speeches by the graduates.

This change was made for the reason that former commencements have frequently lasted for well on to four hours and by the time the address to the graduates was reached the audience was tired and not prepared to listen for many more minutes. The address this year will be made by Rev. G. W. Messinger, of Carlisle. It is expected to have the music furnished by the Citizens' Band and the other features of commencement will all be present.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class will be preached by Rev. Fr. E. Taylor in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, May 25. On the afternoon of May 29 the graduating exercises of the Grammar School will take place in the Menallo building when it is expected to have the address made by County Superintendent Heindel.

Just now the High School Seniors are busy preparing the essays and orations which must be presented not later than May 9. Only a few of them have as yet announced subjects. The following are the subjects to which they have youthful graduates are receiving attention: "Examples of the Common Every Day Virtues Barbehenn; "The Crimson Tipped Flower," Frieda Boehler; "Music, a Part of an Education," Ethel Arnold; "Ivy Day and Bells", Marian Deardorff; "The Girl in Question," Lelieh Lippy; "Government by Commission", Arthur Hutchinson; "The Coffee House", Marion Kendlehart; "The Battle of a Great Gift", MacBelle Little; "The Women's Sanitarium", Carrie Wilt; "The Potter's Art", Ella O'Hara; "From Chaos came Home", Nellie Robinson; "The School Boy as a Wage Earner", Lawrence Shenda; "Fifty Years in Gettysburg", Ida Shenda; "Great Discoveries Science is Seeking", Claire Zeamer; "The Weather Bureau", Wilbur Stallsmith; "The Unknown Quantity from an Incident", Miserva Vaughinbaugh; "The Modern Air School", Carwell Taylor; "The Trial", Mary Jane Walter; "School Gardens", Louise Weaner.

LIGHTNING PRANKS

Halves Chimney, But Also Saves Hole in Field.

Lightning played queer pranks in a bolt which struck Tarr County, one bolt slicing in half a brick chimney upon the residence of M. O. Miller, then striking the earth and making by shreds a number of children's Easter baskets. Working from a corner of his home Albert Zimmerman saw another bolt strike into the centre of a field, leaving a round hole and sending earth and rocks soaring as though from an explosion of dynamite.

GENERAL JOE JOHNSTON—Incidentally Confederate officer; but who had succeeded to command of the latter's fragment on account of the latter's death in the recent mêlée—was aside—by himself, with considerable severity—from his unsatisfactory interview. He a moment over the day's events and received installment just to a final report of the position of the Federal army" and came up and was advancing to meet. This should have been the Union reserves from Centerville, but it was not. It was the Federal Sixth of the Army of the Shenandoah under Patterson, with 1,500 men behind him. The whole southern line now continued to the enemy, and the combined attack upon the Federal flank and front was decisive enough to force the line of battle from uncertainty to its undone panic. The lines of blue wavered and broke, fell back from the plateau, across the Warrenton pike and on toward the Bull Run ford. The repulse became a rout, the rout grew into an appalling confusion of defeat.

To protect this portion of the line, Colonel Edmund Kirby Smith-subsequently General Smith, to be famous in the Confederate service—was ordered to be a force to Winchester from Harper's Ferry, where the lower little of the "Shenandoah," was placed in charge of Johnston, assuming command, now advanced to the rank of a

This beautiful and fertile revel- cultivated for protection for its own as well as for that of the Federal capital- tion of which the Confederates so- a fair example. Its farms, its slaves and its rich supplies which both sections were struggling to obtain, have furnished.

It was especially important from southern military viewpoint that the valley should be kept out of the hands of the Federal army. No portion of the region could be more valuable to the Confederacy than the valley, or more detrimental to operations north of Richmond.

"If this valley is lost Virginia is lost," was Jackson's watchword.

Early in January, 1862, Captain Imboden was in the midst of his drill in camp. "We have only conjecture as to our destination," General Jackson wrote his superior officer, Secretary of War General Kelly Ned Cummings. "Some think Romney, others Winchester, others Harper's Ferry, others Manassas Gap. Of course, I have no Federal force left to the entire low valley."

With the opening of spring four Federal armies were threatening Richmond and McClellan respectively Frémont and Banks in the north and Buell and Halleck in the west and Burnside in the south, and the entire valley of Virginia, from Winchester to Staunton, was in the hands of the Confederates. Jackson's army corps, seventeen thousand men strong, was encamped on the banks of the Rappahannock, with the exception of Ewell's division, which was at Culpeper Court House, and Jackson's own division, which was at Winchester. Reverend Wise, shortly after his arrival at St. Louis, was assigned to the army of occupation in Missouri, where in a short time he was made brigadier in command of the corps that at once began to drill and discipline the men. Among the officers under him was Captain Nathaniel Lyon, who was destined to become the first Federal general killed in the war. Lyon was a fiery, impetuous man, who had graduated from West Point in the class of 1841, and had served in the Mexican war. He was a strong Union man, and when the war broke out he was in command of the arsenal at St. Louis. He was a personal friend of Francis P. Blair, Jr., and was one of the first men to whom Blair appealed for help when he found that the secessionists were preparing to seize the arsenal. Lyon was a man of action, and he lost no time in getting together a force of loyal men to defend the arsenal. He was appointed a captain in the regular army, and was given command of the arsenal. Lieutenant General Scott.

Never for that officer the untold distrust of Jefferson Davis for her after death, the Federal government and the people of the northern and western states set to work with furious energy to counteract the reverses suffered in the battlefield. Congress authorized the enlistment of half a million of men for three years or the war, and stupendous preparations were made for the campaign of 1862.

Lieutenant General Scott, now for seventy years of age being on his retired served until elected the supreme head of the Federal armies in a former war power active officer, General Hunter C. McClellan.

In Confederate possession. The Federal defeat was decidedly threatened. To protect this portion of the line, Colonel Edmund Kirby Smith-subsequently General Smith, to be famous in the Confederate service—was ordered to be a force to Winchester from Harper's Ferry, where the lower little of the "Shenandoah," was placed in charge of Johnston, assuming command, now advanced to the rank of a

Jack, but he was devout and childlike in his religious faith and was a devoted student at the services of the Episcopal church, to a very high degree. He may have had liberal ideas of the rather extreme on matters of church government, though he was was more from out any on the subject to-day.

"Is it worth these sacrifices? Sir Pride, in the affair of the evening, with the misfortune of civil war ever- lasting and over. Only in the end now when we shall be out of the country."

Washington, remembering Bull Run and the panic-stricken whose of "Stonewall" Jackson was reverted to in prison and in the hospitals of the north of the Potomac. For the reason it is to be remembered that the name of "Stonewall" Jackson saved Shenandoah valley in the spring of 1862—by a ruse, by diverting McDowell's army to the west, by a ruse that kept it from marching from this new victory—by a ruse that saved the city of Washington even days battle around the Confederate capital.

"I am going back home," said the Shenandoah valley to Heartsease, "I have to see the valley once more, and I shall be glad to have you as my fellow-passenger as I am here, perhaps, for a time."

It was not because of the sunless sadness of Heartsease's face that the army almost without question. On the contrary, that lady would have been best be in the threatened Confederate capital, where her knowledge of men and sentiment drawn her house of.

As Gertrude read in northern newspapers, and as she heard in conversation, nothing but of the suffer up of Jackson's troops.

Jackson had been send the six- population of the north about Washington. When they knew killed off our army in the valley, they would be free to send the whole force against the capital.

Captain Kirkland West of the Fifth Virginia cavalry, Stonewall, as he was the second valley adversary born in the Shenandoah valley, was also an occupant of the lower Shenandoah yet was a native of Virginia. He was his fancy that he could hear Heartsease's voice in the distance, and, as he laughed it, was like her laugh. He was accustomed to hear people call his friend Stonewall Jackson, but he had never heard him called "Tom" by any one else. Heartsease was only a little more than a year her's all right. But I have hope we never shall be—that's all."

And then they both suddenly laughed.

"Who knows, indeed? What a tangled web of fuss it was, anyway," continued Heartsease. "I am very glad he was not fighting in Virginia when I was there. I should have felt treacherous."

Meanwhile Gertrude's defense was brave Stonewall and so home to the valley was over the Shenandoah and Manassas Gap railroad. It was a hot time for the old town in the valley, and the people were in a state of great excitement. Jackson's army was encamped on the outskirts of the town, and the streets were filled with Confederate officers and soldiers.

Gertrude had no communication with Jackson, but she was agreed upon to communicate with Ewell, who was stationed at Manassas Junction, and to whom she was to report all the movements of the enemy. She was to be rather closely in touch with Jackson's army, and she was to be rather closely in touch with Jackson's army, and she was to be rather closely in touch with Jackson's army, and she

MANY PLEAS OF GUILTY AT COURT

Lorrie Tealey, Frequent Offender, is Given Six Months in Jail. Others Placed on Parole. Various Court Matters.

Not a criminal case came up for trial at April term of Court which opened on Monday and the day was taken up with the sentencing of prisoners who pleaded guilty and with the usual routine of current business.

Lorrie Tealey, otherwise known as John Nugent, pleaded guilty to the charge of being a tramp. Tealey has frequently appeared in Court, has been put on parole to no effect, and this time he got a sentence of six months in the county jail. Following a recent decision the grand jury's action is required on all cases where a plea of guilty is entered, before such plea can be considered. Ten bills were accordingly brought in against Tealey and the others who pleaded guilty.

John McGervey pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy though he said that he was arrested while drunk and did not know whether or not he had committed the offense with which he was charged. He did not look like the ordinary tramp and his manner so impressed the Court that he was placed on parole. McGervey said he was a hard working man, had not been out of employment for many months and that he had been assured of his job on state highway work should he get out of jail. He was arrested about two weeks ago.

Merrym Myers pleaded guilty to the larceny of several panels from the local furniture factory where he had been working. He was placed on parole for a period of two years. In referring to the practice of taking materials from the furniture factories in Gettysburg, Judge Swope stated that offenders in the future would probably receive more severe treatment at the hands of the Court.

James Riley pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was placed on parole for a year.

Martha Taylor pleaded guilty to a charge of adultery and was placed on parole for a period of a year.

Attorneys in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Frank Eckroy reported that the issues at stake had been settled by the Public Service Court and the Court ordered the recognizance which had been forfeited by Eckroy's bondsmen to be remitted to him. Edson has had an accident during the past few months and is now at his home in the Nahwahs with a broken leg.

A suit was entered in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Robert Felix charged with assault and battery; while the grand jury returned not a true bill in the case against Jacob Rockey charged with carrying concealed deadly weapons.

Howard Kenney Wilde admonished the various constables to be more complete in arresting those who are conducting illegitimate dances, chasing rebecnes and so on. They are known to exist, it is said, and at the last Court Mr. Wilde gave similar instructions which were evidently not heeded.

Robert A. Brown was appointed auditor of Franklin township to fill the unexpired term of Charles Popple who has moved from that township.

The commissioners appointed to inquire into the advisability of dividing Mt. Pleasant township into election districts recommended that it be divided into three such districts. Their report was ordered filed and confirmed nisi.

Upon request of District Attorney Wilde a nol pros was entered before Court day in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Isaac Deardorff, charged with assaulting, interfering and resisting a state officer. This case grew out of a visit of Dr. J. L. Harbaugh to the home of Mr. Deardorff near Arendtsville during the measles agitation in the section.

George W. Lawrence and John L. Stoerlein were appointed school directors for the regular term of six years in the Hamilton Independent school district and George V. Martin for the two years to fill the unexpired term of George P. Groft, deceased.

Sylvester Martello was appointed judge of elections in Union township to fill the unexpired term of Henry Dwyer, who has removed from that township.

C. W. Rouse, O. D. McMillan and M. L. Powers were appointed viewers for a bridge over Marsh Creek at the church of Willoughby Run.

Divorces were granted in the cases of Alice J. Nelson vs. St. John McClean, and Harman Kappes vs. Grace E. Kappes.

INJURED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. William Schaeffer, of South Washington Street, Thrown out of Automobile which Struck Pole at Side of Road.

Henry A. Sell, of near Pennville, Penn., was the victim of another of the narrow escape from serious injury and perhaps death in an accident on the Littlestown and Hanover pike Saturday morning.

Mr. Sell was accompanied by his wife, his mother, Mrs. George Sell, and a niece, Mrs. William Schaeffer, of Gettysburg, and he was driving a machine belonging to Jacob Culp, Good, of Sell station. In some manner Mr. Sell lost control of the machine while travelling at a high rate of speed, variously estimated at 45 to 60 miles an hour, and collided with a telephone pole.

All were thrown out and escaped with slight bruises, except the mother-in-law of Mrs. Sell, who was the only victim received under the club, besides the occupants of the car. Dr. J. H. Ettinger conducted the necessary attention, and reports Mrs. Sell as being cared for at the home of her son.

Mrs. Schaeffer, of South Washington street, was thrown out with the rest. Her face was badly cut and bruised and her left arm was broken at the elbow. Fortunately her injuries are not of a serious nature.

FOR STATE SONG

Official Song for Pennsylvania Appeals to Senate.

A concurrent resolution providing for a committee to select an official song for Pennsylvania was introduced by Senator Sheatz, of Philadelphia, and unanimously adopted. The resolution follows:

Whereas, there have been proposed as official songs of the commonwealth, of Pennsylvania two compositions, one by Hon. Stephen C. Foster, Dr. J. Stoughton Holbrook and another by John E. Barrett, of Scranton both called "Pennsylvania," therefore, be it resolved, By the senate and house of representatives that a joint committee of the senate and house of representatives inquire into and report whether it is necessary the merits and availability of the said compositions as the official song of the commonwealth, and if so, which such recommendation as they shall deem proper."

MRS. SAMUEL ALTHOFF

Formerly of Near Abbottstown Died in Hanover Monday.

Mrs. Magdalen Althoff, widow of the late Samuel Althoff, died at her home in Hanover at 12.50 o'clock Monday morning from a complication of diseases, at the age of 89 years and 13 days.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bricker, near Paradise township, and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ida Bair, of Hanover, who, with her husband and family, resided with her during the past nineteen years.

Theodore F. M. Harbut, of Berlin Co., will known in Gettysburg, is critically ill at his home and will not be able to attend the Fall meetings of the 21st Masonic district.

FIGHTING IN GREEK ARMY

Taking part in a number of battles, Cont. Voralios Sgouros, a graduate of the Gettysburg Candy Kitchen and who has been in the Greek Army, has so far escaped injury and writes to his Gettysburg friends of his experiences.

The most recent word received from the former Gettysburg man is in the form of a postal card to Lewis Pattie, one of the proprietors of the candy shop, dated from Salonika, the present shipping establishment on Chamberburg street. On the card "Cont" told that he had been in the battle for days previous to writing and said that he had not been wounded.

The card contains his photograph and shows him in the full uniform of a Greek soldier. Since leaving Gettysburg he has acquired what he last slightly before coming into his residence—a heavy black mustache which has changed his appearance greatly.

Mr. Varelie will serve an enlistment of six months in the Greek army and his friends here say that there is great doubt of his ever returning to America. His relatives live in a small town, about the size of Gettysburg, between Athens and Sparta. They are well-to-do and have very profitable olive groves so that, with his finances in good shape and his household family, it is believed the attractions in the United States will not be sufficient for him to decide to return again to America.

CATCH MANY SHAD

McCall's Ferry Seeing Large Catches Again.

Conditions of the river and the prevailing warm weather last week opened up the shad fishing below the McCall's Ferry dam in earnest and the catches are reported to be large by "dopesters," and these using nets at the respective batteries. At the McCall battery, one "haul" is said to have taken on Friday, it being the largest catch of the season years. Saturday one haul netted 85. The supply is so large that they are being sold at 5 cents apiece in the dam. From now on there will be no let up until the close of the season on June 20.

ANOTHER IN WELL

Dillsburg Girl Has Experience Similar to Gettysburg Girl's.

Miss Alice Arnold, a young girl of Dillsburg, dropped down a deep well which served as a covering for a pump in the cellar of her father's home, a distance of 18-foot well. At the bottom there was six feet of water. The girl struck the water with such force that she broke the surface uninjured. She scrambled out and climbed to the top of the well and propped herself until J. O. Herman, a carpenter, who had seen her fall, lowered a rope and pulled her to the surface. After she was taken it was found that she had sustained no injuries.

CREEKS CELEBRATE

Many Creeks Gathered at Pen-Mar Celebration on Sunday.

The long, steady downpour of rain and very disagreeable weather Sunday did not have the effect on the large gathering of Creeks at Pen-Mar to celebrate Isaac Hedges' birthday. The festivities were held at the Maryland hotelhouse. A lunch was billed and will have been served with much dressed. It was pinned on a long pole and was laid down in the rear, for which had been built of wood outside of the weather the dinner would have developed so rapidly that on Sunday one pound of butter was sold. This fact is remarkable, considering that the public was only four months and two days old.

SOLD MARBLE

The carload of marble consigned to A. B. Stannard and attached for bills by C. M. Wolf, William H. Tyson and Harry Bushman, has been released and sold on Monday to Mr. Wolf at a bid of $82.50. There was a freight bill of $139.00 on the marble.

COUNCIL PLANS STREET WORK

One square in the business section of Gettysburg will receive a permanent street construction, three or four will receive semi-permanent improvement of like nature and all other streets are to be given treatment to do away with dust and mud for the summer. The summer, according to action taken at a special meeting of the town council on Monday evening. The above plan was agreed on as the best after several hours of discussion and a committee of five was appointed to go over plans and figures and submit a report next Tuesday evening recommending a scheme of street improvements for the entire town. The committee consists of Messrs. Butt, Tawney, Armor, Cobori and Keith.

It is the intention of Council to place the contract for the work next week and to have actual operations commence as soon as that they may be completed on or before June 15.

Representatives of the Tarvia Company of the Atlantic Refining Company were present at Monday evening's session of Council and presented numerous plans for street improvement. The Tarvia Company submitted four proposals.

First, to re-make the street entirely by scraping with loaders of their product, stone and sand which produces a permanent job, with much the appearance of asphalt, though more durable and cheaper than the cost of this is 85 cents a square yard.

Second, to clean the street thoroughly by the surface level is, put on scarpings, roll it, and then apply tarvia. With this a coating of tarvia each year the life of this road would be prolonged. The cost of this is a constant improvement in its condition be better attention is given it. Cost, 20 cents a square yard.

Third, to clean and scrape the surface thoroughly, then apply tarvia to fill all depressions in the best manner,and then tarvia to be placed on it. The cost of this is 10 cents a square yard.

Fourth, the town to clean the street and tarvia to be placed on it then after the town has filled the depressions. This method is practically similar to the third except that the work done on the street scraping. Cost 7 cents a square yard.

The representative of the Atlantic Refining Company gave a demonstration of three cents for sufficient road oil to cover one square yard, the borough to place same, making the possible total cost of 3 cents a square yard.

Council went over all the methods thoroughly and then came to the conclusion that the proper thing to do would be to use the 85 cent method on one block which would show the exact nature and wear of a permanent kind of the material; to have several blocks of the 10 cent method; and about seven of the seven cent method; and the balance of the town to be oiled with the Atlantic road oil.

The representatives of the companies present at the meeting of council spoke of the bad condition of the town streets and said they would have a worse for any street then sprinkling. They further explained the opinion that Centre Square was in very fair condition and could be put into very good condition with the use of tarvia at an expense of only 5½ cents a square yard.

The tarvia street costing 85 cents per square yard is as follows, Carlisle pavement, asphalt street. Twenty four hours after the material is applied the street is ready for use, it does not stick to the shoes, and has a slight odor which disappears in a very short time. The oil which is to be used about town also has a slight odor and when properly applied is said to be free of any tendency to cling to the shoes.

Method of applying this system of improvements were discussed and it was decided that the borough will attempt it without substantial help from the tarvia company. The cost of the 85 cent method will be $586.10 a square; the cost of the square to be permanently improved will be $1450.10. The cost of the other methods depends on the amount of time required to put the streets in condition for the coating.

Just where the square is to be located which will see the permanent work installed was not definitely decided upon. Several things will enter into its selection, one of which will be the condition of the trolley car tracks if a block on either Chambersburg or Baltimore street is taken and the other will, in all probability, be the amount of money the property owners on the block contributes to the improvement.

Miss Florence Heathcote has returned home after spending the winter graduating in the schools of Stewartstown.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN CHARGE

Three Adams County Orchards Scenes of State Demonstration Work Next Week. Will Show Fruit Growers how to Save.

The annual spring series of public meetings in the demonstration orchards under the supervision of State Entomologist H. A. Surface in Adams county, on Monday, May 5th. At these meetings the demonstrator shows the most approved and modern methods of handling fruit crops, from such insects as codling moth and curculio, and from the various diseases. The first meeting is to be held in the afternoon open exhibit in the southern counties of the State, the demonstrations are scheduled to begin in these counties first. Spraying should not be done while the blossoms are on the trees, but rather when the petals have fallen and days immediately after the petals have fallen.

The public exercises begin at one o'clock in the afternoon, and the demonstrator explains and shows several lines of the weather. Everybody is invited to be present. The following dates are announced:—Monday, May 5th, D. C. Jacobs, Gettysburg, R.No.8; Tuesday, May 6th, Mr. Lackey, Cashtown; Wednesday, May 7th, Biglerville, Orchard.

Instructions will be given in pruning, spraying, thinning, cultivation and general orchard management. The demonstrators will show how the various demonstrations are prepared, tested and applied in spraying outfits and how to mix the seeds of the growers.

The object of the tests not only to show how to save the orchards from the depredations of the pests, but to show the most economical and practice improved methods of horticulture. Only fruit of a high grade of fruit can be grown at a minimum cost.

Spraying is one of the most discreasable labors the farmer has to perform, and it must be constantly said that it is one of the most necessary works. Many farms are usually required to do this task and many more would do it were the knowledge that may be found in the attic and they appear somewhat like the work of the fall. Besides, however, the manipulator of the spraying device must be protected from getting splashed with the ingredient, for it is very poisonous to have any amount reach the skin and very painful if some finds its way into the eyes.

The spraying solution is either in barrel or tank and must be boiled through the orchard between the rows. Many orchardists prepare the solution right and left on the trees.

REFUSE TO PAY TRAINMEN MORE

Railroads Refuse to Grant Men's Demands.

WANT TO RAISE ALL RATES

Managers of Eastern Lines Declare Demands of Conductors and Others Would Cost $17,000,000 a Year.

New York, May 2.—Simultaneously the railroads of the east refused to grant the demands of their conductors and trainmen for an increase in pay and announced that they would ask the interstate commerce commission to permit them to increase all rates to meet the additional cost.

The refusal to grant blanket wages to the conductors and trainmen, the demands for which the east and Western having been settled by arbitration, was made public by the conference committee of the managers of the eastern railroads.

The committee says the present rates of wages are liberal, and in many cases excessive and that the request for an increase is described by the interests of owners of railroad securities, in the interests of all who travel and use the railroads in the public as a whole."

"The wages and working conditions which you request," says the reply, "would increase the pay of the 150,000 conductors and trainmen of the railroads in the eastern group by approximately $17,000,000, or 20 per cent per annum."

"The increase would be equivalent to placing on these properties a load of $425,000,000 of 4 per cent securities through which it would be a preference over first mortgage bonds.

"If the railroads are forced to pay extravagant wages to men in levis service, the decision must fall on the public. You will readily see, therefore, why, in considering your demands, we hold the public interest paramount.

"Already the traffic of a growing country has outrun the existing facilities, and the heavy burdens incurred through individual legislation, such an ours crew bills—for which the Southern and Northwestern Trails men is alone responsible—have forced on the railroad companies and thus the public, needless expenditures of millions of dollars each year. All of these factors are making it impossible for many of the roads to provide those facilities which prudent foresight demands, and which the interests of the public require.

"In making demands for extravagant wages—wages entirely out of accord with the railroads obligations as a whole—railway employes apparently act on the assumption that a strike that would tie up traffic would never be permitted by the public. They seem to think that if a strike is to be avoided the railroads must give way—that the public will force them to give way, believing that arbitration must take place, and that in the end the splitting of differences between what they demand and the wages they receive will result in their favor.

"In other words, the employes have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

"The submission of the railroads' offer to arbitrate a matter had conference between the committee of managers and a committee of the conductors and trainmen's organizations. Upon the receipt the conductors' and trainmen's committee went into conference to consider what further action should be taken.

The decision to ask the interstate commerce commission to allow a 5 per cent increase on freight of all classes was announced before it was officially issued by Daniel Willard, president of the B. & O. of Ohio.

Mr. Willard is the head of a committee of railway presidents representing the principal lines east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river.

REPUBLICANS TO QUIT VAIN TARIFF EFFORT

Business Wishes Speedy Adjustment of Affairs.

Washington, May 2.—There were indications that Republican leaders in the house of representatives would not continue to delay the passage of the Underwood tariff bill much longer.

Representative Moore, of Pennsylvania, who has been active in offering amendments, voiced this view.

He said the republicans would not attempt to filibuster, and that they had been "hamstrung away at the Republican caucus" and could do without making a single dent in it.

The fact that those who declare their business is affected are asking for speedy adjustment is another reason for their way "readjust their affairs." It is said that many are unable to make definite plans because of the uncertainty attitude.

All efforts of the opposition to defeat the "market basket" reductions in the Democratic bill failed in the house, despite the fact that Republican caucus sessions of three days resulted in unanimous, enforced, lockstep and empty resolutions to defeat the measure of the bill.

Until recently, the bill as the greatest that ever has been written in the history of the country, the Democrats were dest to the glow of congratulations of the best and case super constituencies in the United States. But of late, it is conceded by the chance that they lents of the country, the Democrats were dest to the glow of congratulations of the best and case super constituencies in the United States. 25,000 STORE CLERKS STRIKE

Department Establishments at Buffalo Asked to Pay Union Wages.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 2.—More than 25,000 employes in department stores, including every establishment of the kind in this city, went on strike for increased wages and a shorter work day.

Employes of hardware stores and of the five-and-ten-cent stores participated. The delivery system was thus completely tied up.

Twenty-five Buffalo stores are involved in the tie-up and those are every dispute. The workers are asking for an 8 a week minimum wage for girls and women; $15 minimum wage for men, $1 minimum wage for boys, and $18 a week for drivers and ehaul men.

They ask that no employe be asked to work longer than eight hours a day, and that the stores be closed at 5 o'clock every evening. Also they ask for Saturday half holidays during June, July, August and September, with full pay. The present arrangement is that all the girl clerks is said to be only $5.

TRAINS DELAYED BY W. M. WRECKS

Pittsburgh Flyer Derailed Near Thurmont. Excursionists or Widowsday almost Missed Circus on Account of Long Delay.

Four coaches and the tender of the Pittsburgh Flyer, eastbound on the Western Maryland railroad, were derailed at Graceham, two miles north of Thurmont, Thursday morning. The track for 80 yards was torn up and traffic obstructed until a wrecking crew from Baltimore cleared the way, 10 hours later.

Two engineering coaches in the rear, with 75 or 100 passengers, remained on the track. The flyer was drawing up to stop at Thurmont when from some unexplained cause the tender jumped the track. The passengers, some combination and a day coach followed. The Pullman passengers, most of whom were asleep, were awakened. Though the trains had been wrecked, many made a dash for the doors. Order was restored by the trainmen and the passengers were transferred around the derailed cars to another train.

On Wednesday an excursion was run from Hagerstown to Baltimore. Ringling's Circus which many Gettysburg people enjoyed Thursday was also there by excursion, and also a number of Wednesday's excursionists were delayed by the wreck. The excursion on the way to Baltimore was held up for several hours at Glyndon owing to the wreck of a freight train at that place.

The Pullman and accommodate took the street cars to Baltimore from Glyndon and arrived about only an hour, arriving at their destination shortly after noon. Those who remained on the train until the track was cleared did not reach Baltimore until 2 o'clock.

The Gettysburg excursion Thursday left Gettysburg at 7:30 o'clock late. It carried 606 passengers and reached Gettysburg on its return at midnight.

Work has been started on the new three story sanitarium of Dr. C. H. Goldsborough on the 100 acre tract of land which he recently purchased from Charles Sheffer, near Hunterstown. The sanitarium or hospital will be located on an elevation on the tract of land situated on the road leading from Hunterstown to Goldens Station, and near the same.

The building is being erected by Contractor C. H. Roth, of New Oxford, and is of cement blocks. It will present a very attractive appearance when completed. It is to be 38 x 38 feet and three stories in height, equipped with all conveniences and adapted perfectly to the uses of a sanitarium. The grounds also are being furnished by Harry Fahy, of New Oxford.

Dr. Goldsborough intends to have the treatment of patients suffering from nervous diseases as the principal and of the institution and its first patients will be received with regard to people suffering from various forms of neurasthenia.

A physician is always be available at the new institution and Dr. Goldsborough's assistants, Miss Virginia Goldsborough and Miss Elizabeth Goldsborough, both trained nurses and graduates of the University Hospital, Philadelphia, will have general charge of the sanitarium.

WALKING TO COAST

Two Carlisle Boys Pass through here Tuesday.

Clay Runner and Raphael Widner, of Carlisle, arrived in Gettysburg at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, having made their first day's trip of a journey on foot to the Pacific coast. They left on Friday for Frederick.

They were attired in khaki uniforms and carried knapsacks on their backs on which was sewed a small peanut with the words, "Carlisle to the Coast," carried a cane and an extra pair of shoes.

When Frederick they go to Washington, D. C., and from there to various points, to Fort Worth, Waco, Texas, Kansas Plains, Boythe, Colo., and then to San Francisco.

There is no time limit attached to their journey and they are taking the trip for the fun of it. They may not proceed directly to San Francisco however, as many changes may be alter their route somewhat and proceed to the Panama canal.

PAUL E. TAYLOR

United States Consul, Nephew of Rev. F. K. Taylor, Dead.

Paul Emerson Taylor, a cousin of Rev. F. K. Taylor, of Gettysburg, died on April 2 at Port of Spain, Trinidad, where he was United States consul. He was a native of Dry Run, Franklin county and after he graduated from a law school he went to Chambersburg to practice his profession. For a year he had an office in the offices of William Alexander, Esq., and then maintained an office of his own. At the outbreak of the war with Spain he enlisted and,being an expert horseman, was assigned to service in the Sheridan troop.Following the war he returned to Chambersburg a member of years and then went to Nebraska, where he opened a law office and was practicing when appointed by President Taft to a consular position. While in Franklin County he served as solicitor to the County Commissioners.

He wife, a child,several sisters and a brother survive.

BRIEF ITEMS

The excursion from Baltimore Friday run by the Gettysburg College Woman's League of that city brought between 200 and 300. A party of Gettysburgers were present at the Seminary Refectory. Others took dinner at the Pitzer House, the Hotel Gettysburg and at the Eagle Dining Rooms.

Messrs. C. W. Weaver & Son,
Gettysburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Weaver:—

It will interest you to learn that we have cut from remnants about nine hundred Misses Skirts, of materials of high character—which avoided any figure of factory $5.00 to $6.75. If you can fit an up twenty-five in a Friday's sale, no commission me to act for you and I'll see to it that you get an excellent assortment. Limit can 34 to 38 inches. Kindly reply at once.

Yours sincerely,
E. E. Woolley.

There was no price given for our cost, which had been overlooked by the writer, but price came by telegraph next day. We ordered twenty-five and they are now in our stock— Price $4.25 — They are tailored in the "Wooltex" way—out of elegant suit and skirt materials, and if you can wear a skirt 36 inches long, or under, there is a chance to save from $2.00 to $4.00 in its purchase out of this lot.

PLACE SIGNS ON STATE HIGHWAYS

Five Metal Posts and Sign Boards Placed along the Pike from Gettysburg to Chambersburg; Foretells State Ownership.

The first precursors of coming state ownership of the Chambersburg & Gettysburg turnpike were observed on Friday when a force of men were engaged from Chambersburg to Gettysburg distributing and erecting highway signs and markers between the two points. The markers consist of substantial cast-iron plates showing about eight feet above the earth with an open base of two and a-half feet.

The signs is detachable, the total weight of pike and sign being about two hundred pounds. At highways crossing the pike a pillar and sign are placed, bearing the words, "State Highway," and a second line, "Gettysburg, Pittsburgh," an arrow pointing eastward for Gettysburg and westward for Pittsburgh. The letters are black, white on a black ground. In some instances distances are given, in figures.

Each pillar is painted white and thus securely fastened against wind or bumps. Where there are sharp or dangerous curves a marker, "Curve," is located at a suitable distance both east and west. Two men do the work directed by a state engineer as to location and distances.

IMPROVEMENTS

Many Business Men Improve Stores for Coming Summer.

The spirit of improvement which has been manifested by many property owners has brought forth signs of the business men of town with the result that a number of stores are presenting a greatly improved appearance.

E. S. Faber has removed from his cigar store the benches for his cigar makers and has had them in use otherwise, part of the establishment. New cases have been put in the main store room and the old gates room removed.

The stores of Charles Blocher, Doudrich and Hartley, and C. B. Kindelbeiler have also been arranged and improved while the Gettysburg Department Store has greatly changed the appearance of its place of business by the new arrangement of the front with two fine large display windows.

P. T. Slaithouse has installed his new 7 gasoline pumps in front of the enlarged room which is tastefully furnished. A grill room with Pullman seats and tables will be added on the first floor by the first of days. The main living room makes a very fine appearance and plans for the grill room are very attractive.

AN INNOVATION

Seminary Commencement will not Have Baccalaureate on Sunday.

The commencement of the Theological Seminary will be held on Thursday evening, May 11, in the College. Lutheran Church and Dr. Luther Kuhlman will preach the baccalaureate sermon at this time. In former years the sermon has always been preached on the Sunday preceding commencement. On the evening of May 4 the alumni association will hold and the address will be made in Seminary Chapel by Rev. J. L. Baker. A reception will follow at the refectory. The meeting of the board of trustees will be held on the morning of May 8 at 9 nine o'clock.

RAISED $4450

Remodeled Church at Biglerville was Dedicated on Sunday.

The remodeled and enlarged St. Paul's Lutheran church at Biglerville, was dedicated on Sunday in the presence of a large audience, and eloquent sermons were preached at both services by Dr. S. G. Dill Bilheimer, of Carlisle. Improvements costing $7000 have been made to the church and on Sunday $4450 was raised to meet the expenses. The remainder had been secured previous to the day of dedication and the congregation now has a home of which all may be proud. The services provided for Sunday and people are alike happy over the successful consummation of their labors.

SOON CAUGHT

Tosh Small Sun From Cash Register Held for Court.

John Riley, residence unknown, was arrested Sunday evening by Chief W. Wilson charged with the larceny of $1.15 from the cash register at the Clover House. All but five cents was recovered. On Monday a hearing was held before Squire Harman and the man committed to jail in default bail in Court. He was employed on the state road work near town.

CARRIED WATER ON THIRD DAY

Fayettesville Boy, Eight Years Old Ran away, Took Part in the Battle of Gettysburg, and got Whipping for it.

Among the people who will visit Gettysburg next July, when the men of the North and South meet in their reunion, will be William H. Herbaugh, eight manager of the Western Union bus company in Fayetteville. Mr. Herbaugh's father, Mr. Boges is not exactly a veteran of the Civil War, but he was there. He was a boy of eight and ran away from home to see the battle, his service consisting of carrying water to the soldiers on the third day. He got enough spectacle of the service, however, instead of a medal of honor.

Mr. Boges was born and reared in the Cumberland Valley, and it is only eighteen miles from the battlefield. When the fight started and lasted over the second day he was living with his parental roof and hiked it part of the way and rode the rest to the battlefield. He worked in the field on the afternoon of the terrible third day and carried water to the soldiers. Spring to soldiers who had driven their teams through.

"I spent the whole night carrying water and when the sun of July 4 peeped over the horizon I was at it," says Mr. Boges "It did not have my shoes and socks on at the start. Between that and the work of carrying water, I used to tell you I was never so tired in my life. Will I be there on the fiftieth anniversary? Well, I should say I will."

"I will meet an old telegrapher from New York, who has charge of the battery and from the description I have given him of where I was when over the wire he thinks he will know me after fifty years. Just think, I was eight that year and carried a gun the men of that command. It was one of the proudest moments of my life, and I will never forget it or the gunning down of my best friend and being buried with a poplar switch for disobeying her and running away to the battle of Gettysburg."

ADAMS IN 7TH CLASS

Under New Law Adams County is in Next to Last Class.

Senator Cullen has a bill to divide the counties of the state into eight classes, according to the number of population. Under its provisions Franklin and Cumberland counties are placed in the sixth class. Fulton county would be in the seventh class, Adams and Bedford in the seventh.

The purpose of the classification is to equalize taxation and to provide a less local character without limiting by population, which is necessary at the present time. This population limitation is necessary with acts of Assembly has frequently been questioned by the Supreme Court. On the other hand judges of the same court have suggested a classification. The Cullin measure is made according to population.

STATE MEN HERE TO ENFORCE LAW

Two Officers Sent by State to Enforce Dog Quarantine now in Effect in Four Towns and Five Near by Townships.

Dog quarantines were put into effect Saturday in Gettysburg Biglerville, Arendtsville and Bendersville and in five near by townships, Mount Joy, Cumberland, Butler, Menallen and Franklin. Two officers, constables, stationed by the State Livestock Sanitary Board for the purpose, are on duty and will patrol the four towns and five townships, shooting all dogs at large that are not both licensed and muzzled.

Quarantine posters have been posted and the work of killing off all unlicensed dogs will be started immediately. The officers will spend a portion of their time in Gettysburg and the balance will be spent in the unrestricted portions of the county. The quarantine is in effect until the canine is expected.

The Board has promised the assistance of the town authorities in enforcing the quarantine and will undoubtedly do its part to see that the state officers in killing all unlicensed dogs running at large.

A fresh outbreak of the mad dog scare situation was reported on Saturday when J. Byron Horner was attacked by a dog frothing at the mouth. The animal bit the horse's rear. But while Mr. Horner was working about the yard with it was with difficulty that he prevented the dog from getting hold of the lines. The animal, however, and after beating off the animal, got his gun, followed it and succeeded in killing it. The dog belonged to whom the dog belonged or from where it came.

MAKES GOOD

York Springs Boy Making Good at Fredericksburg, Virginia.

The News and Observer of Raleigh N. C., has the following to say of James Myers, the former York Springs athlete:

"The Battleship Louisiana team, rated as third best navy team of Uncle Sam's navy, with a record of 17 victories and no defeats this season, was no match with the Raleigh Capitals who won by score of 10 to 0. Big Myers did his part by holding Raleigh to six hits, no two coming in the same inning, and he had the visitors eating out of his hand. His curve ball was control and scored one of the runs. His curves broke well and at no time was he in danger."

SHAVING HEADS

The freak idea of having their hair clipped has among the opposite sex of members of the Sophomore class at college and penetrated the campus and has followed the example of a few leading students in the Junior class to adopt the idea voluntarily wore visible signs of committee of the self-styled "Convicts' Club" who have clipped their locks that thorough clipping was in evidence.

Miss Nellie Kelly has returned from Peabody Institute, Baltimore, to spend several days at her home here.

Guy W. Mickley, Ira Plank, Miss Verna Bowers and brother were among the Gettysburgers who spent the day in Spring Mall" at Hanover on Friday last.

Rev. Guy E. McCarney has been made secretary of St. Peter's Lutheran church, College Hill, Easton.

HURRICANE AT YORK SPRINGS

Buildings Unroofed, Trees Uprooted and Other Damage Done at York Springs when Hurricane Paid Twenty Minute Visit.

With terrific force a cyclone struck York Springs about eleven o'clock Sunday morning and, following a path through the town from west to east to the center of the town, uprooted trees, unroofed buildings, uprooted trees, overturned horses and did a great amount of damage. A distinct path was followed through one of the town not in the direct line of the storm suffered no damage whatever.

For twenty minutes the wind raged with terrific velocity and many residents made preparations to leave their homes, thinking those were the last. Horace Hetrick and John Sadler, both of whom reside in substantial brick dwellings and who felt the buildings rocking. In front of Mr. Sadler's home a large tree was blown down. A big pine tree was blown down on the front lawn of Anthony Baumgardner.

At the Lutheran parsonages a chimney was blown over and the slate roof was blown in by the force of the wind. The parsonage was severely tortured and carried for a distance of twenty feet. At the home of Rev. Mr. Hendricks a large chimney with three panes of glass was blown into a million pieces. The roof in front of the house was carried a distance of 150 feet to the Methodist parsonage. A board from the awning was torn loose as it left its fastenings and, striking Rev. Mr. Hendricks on the nose, was ejected in a sanitary tree.

One of the most painful freaks of the storm was the carrying of a roof 15 feet by 20 feet from over the home of William Hendricks for a distance of one hundred yards where it struck the home of Mrs. Taylor. The force caught the roof about the middle and carried it in such a way that the divided roof caught both sides of the tree and held it until help arrived. Even then after being checked the roof continued some little distance before it finally came to rest.

The storm was by far the worst that York Springs has had in the last year of years and residents, generally, were thankful that no fatalities resulted. There was no electrical display and the thunder storm which visited Gettysburg and other sections of the county was totally lacking at York Springs.

During the thunder storm of Sunday morning the barn on the farm of Jacob Taylor in Menallen township was struck and a valuable mare, belonging to Harvey Hoover, was killed. The mare was valued at $200 while damage estimated at $75 was done to the barn. The bolt was a "cold stroke" and the structure did not take fire.

RADLY INJURED

Mount Joy Township Man Meets with Serious Accident.

Clayton Pohlmann, who resides near the Hoffman Orphanage in Mount Joy township, was painfully injured about 9 o'clock Monday morning when he was thrown from a buggy to a colt which he was trying to break in and which had become unruly. He was thrown to the ground by a wheel fold and a bad gash was cut in his head. Dr. Hoffman was summoned and examination showed that, while the skull was not fractured, a very ugly injury had been received. Mr. Rohrbaugh remained in an unconscious condition for some hours. He is expected to recover. He is twenty-four years of age and unmarried.

PREPARING PARK

Hanover Park to be Prepared for Summer Season.

Eichelberger Park, Hanover, is being put in the very best condition for the coming summer season. LOWER PARCEL POST

Wants Higher Weight Limit and Rates Installed.

Congressman Daniel J. Lewis, of Maryland, announces that he will speak in the fight in Congress within the next few weeks for a reduction in parcel rates, for a higher weight limit and for enlargement of its classification so as to include books. Mr. Lewis has been studying the operation of the parcel post system since its establishment by the Postoffice Department. For the past month he has been at work on a speech which he will deliver in the House advocating changes and he finds from data that it can be developed into an agency for a reduction of the high cost of living.

FIRST MEETING FOR NEXT YEAR

Spanish American War Veterans Select Gettysburg for 1914 Meeting. Company M. Represented in Offices.

At the meeting of the Fifth Pennsylvania Spanish American War veterans in Altoona last week it was decided to hold the next annual meeting in Gettysburg starting April 27, 1914. This is the first meeting for next year that has yet been secured.

Company M, of this regiment, was recruited in Gettysburg and at last week's meeting in Altoona was represented by John Slick and James A. McElhenny. When they arrived at Altoona they found that many of their fellow veterans would like to come to Gettysburg next year and, after a little work and a few telephone calls, the attraction was secured. The attendance will be about 400 or 500, it is thought. The meeting consists of a business session, a banquet and right-seeing trip.

At the business sessions last week James G. McHenry was chosen third vice president and Rene Rickets, of Harrisburg, president. At the time of the war in 1898 Mr. Rickets was first lieutenant of Company M. With his family he visited Gettysburg on Sunday.

TO MOVE BODY

Headstone Memorial Over Grave of Barbara Fritchie.

The remains of Barbara Fritchie, Whittier's heroine, which since her death have been buried in the old German Reformed Graveyard, Frederick, will in a few days be removed to Mt. Olivet Cemetery, also in the bodies of her husband, Casper Fritchie, and several others, and will also be transferred.

The plan is to place the ashes of Barbara Fritchie in a vault and reinter them later with appropriate ceremonies. The removal of the bodies will be made by the Barbara Fritchie Memorial Association, which is collecting a fund to erect a handsome memorial over her remains.

Hundreds of tourists from all over the United States come annually to Frederick to see the grave of Dame Barbara. In recent years the old cemetery has not been kept up, and the grave is now in an isolated and neglected spot.

Several sites in the cemetery have been suggested for the grave, but none has been selected. One of the spots is an elevation between the old and new portions of the cemetery.

DR. O'NEAL FUNERAL

Many Beautiful Floral Tributes for Dr. J. M. O'Neal.

The funeral of Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal was held at half past ten Mon. morning at his late home on Carlisle street. Dr. T. J. Barkley, of Littlestown, conducted the services and was assisted by Rev. C. E. Shindle, of Washington, a son-in-law of Dr. O'Neal. The number of handsome floral tributes was unusually large. At one o'clock the body was taken to Hanover for interment on the lot in the Odd Fellows' cemetery where Dr. O'Neal's wife and a son were buried many years ago. The honorary pall bearers were Hon. William McClean, Hon. Wm. McSherry, Dr. J. R. Dickson, Dr. P. N. Bikle, Dr. G. D. Stahley, and Hon. William McSherry. The active pall bearers were S. E. Neely, J. Donald Swope, Charles E. Shahle, Paul E. Dickens, H. Baiser, J. L. Butt and D. P. McPherson.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS

College Athletic Teams were Busy on Saturday Afternoon.

On Saturday the college relay team entered at the big races on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, with teams from nine other colleges and came in third. Franklin and Marshall took first place and St. John's second. The base ball team played Susquehanna on Music Field and lost by the score of 4 to 3. The week previous the local team defeated Susquehanna on their own grounds 1-0.

STOP ON MOUNTAIN

Visitors to Gettysburg in July Seek Mountain Hotels.

Many people from Pittsburgh, who purpose attending the semi-centennial observance of the battle of Gettysburg in July, are endeavoring to make arrangements for accommodations at the hotels and lodging houses at Blue Ridge Summit, Highfield and Pen Mar, according to the Waynesboro Record. They plan to make the daily trip to and from Gettysburg in their automobiles.

ALMOST MET HER DEATH IN WELL

West Middle Street Scene of Narrow Escape from Drowning. Rotten Boards over Well Suddenly Gave way.

Falling through several decayed boards which covered an old well at the home of William Hahn, on West Middle street, Miss Marie Eckenrode, of Altoona, who has spent the past year at the Little Sisters' Home, escaped drowning on Friday evening.

The boards which covered the well were not known to be decayed and Miss Eckenrode, as she walked or walked over them during the day. They suddenly gave way, however, as she stood on the cover and she fell through The presence of several cross-pieces half way down the well alone saved her from drowning. Screaming for help as she fell, first, and remained standing in water which reached almost to her chin, unable to get out.

The well is quite deep and, had she not fallen in the cross-pieces, there is little doubt that the accident would have had a tragic result. Luther Mc-Donnell was in the yard adjoining when Miss Eckenrode fell, and he hastened to the aid of the unfortunate before the young lady could become cold. Although she was almost drenching, she suffered no ill effects from the experience.

PRAISE FOR EDDIE

Eddie Plank Delights his Friends with Fine Work.

The feat of Eddie Plank on the base ball diamond Friday caused Saturday's sporting writers to devote more space in praise of Gettysburg's hero, than Philadelphia's fans gave.

The polished pitching of Eddie Plank, the daddy of them all in the history of baseball in the baseball atmosphere, turned New York club swingers back to the tune of a single tally, of the tickling of a watch yesterday when Plank struck out a three visiting batsmen in succession, Frank Chance and his Yankees. Score: 1 to 0.

Mack's grand old southpaw—old in years, but young in the knowledge with the Athletics—gave the best exhibition of pitching staged in the major league this season with the release of a former ruling to pottzes. Plank, who has been pitching baseball lasting as a bank clerk, Plank allowed only twenty-seven men to face him, one to cross-fire. This is only two more than the minimum number of nine innings. He showed that his control was true by not permitting a base on balls.

Not once did a New York runner advance as far as second base. It was considered some feat to reach second base. Plank, who is a native of Gettysburg, who is starting his twelfth season as a member of the Athletics in an unbroken line with the school. Two runners reached the middle sack, but in all three attempts they failed to advance any further.

In the seven of the innings, the Yankees were retired in one, two, three order. As a matter of fact there was only one fly ball retired for delivery of the veteran cross-fire artist.

DECLINES CALL

Rev. Mr. Trowbridge Declines Call to Become Local Pastor.

Rev. Charles R. Trowbridge, of Easton, has decided to decline the call to Trinity Lutheran church, Gettysburg. A unanimous call was extended to him at the congregational meeting last Sunday and it was thought at that time that Mr. Trowbridge would accept the call. His action came as a surprise to him as he had not been in the city since preaching considered by the Gettysburg congregation. He will be succeeded as pastor for not accepting to become Mr. Trowbridges feels the demands and responsibilities of the charge too great for him to undertake.

800 POUND SILL

Forestry Commissioner Conklin went to the Graffenburg Inn this week to inspect the improvements and additions there. The masonry of the kitchen, under the direction of Architect Bosler, is completed and the main sill sustaining the big new wing is supported by a stone foundation and brick pier. It is a solid timber of white pine weighing about 800 pounds and requiring eight men to handle. It was sawed from a tree at Mont Alto of about eighty years growth.

Miss Nellie Weaver and Miss Elizabeth Van Cleve have returned home after a visit of several days in Hanover.

ANGRY SLAVS SET FIRE TO SHACK

Disgruntled Employees Cause Lots of Trouble East of Town. Both Fellow Employees' Clothes. Freefor-all Fight.

Following a fire, in which the clothing of a dozen or more was destroyed, and a fight in which all of the Slavs concerned in the affair were involved, six Slavs were placed in the county jail on Friday afternoon, give a hearing in the evening and held for trial at April Court.

All parties concerned were employed by the Western Maryland railroad company and are living in a shack track in the East End of town. The six Slavs, according to reports, quarreled their pay. It was refused, it is said, and, soon afterward, they started for the shack in which all their belongings were located. This building was entered by the six men and in the time of the big maneuvers here considerable damage was done, some of it result by the Western Maryland for the fellows in the shack were busily tearing their improvements about Sunday. The entire gang of about twenty men used the place for sleeping and eating.

After getting out their own clothing the six bandits started for the York pike and on their way, some distance away, saw some smoke arising from the building. Grabbing up pick handles, sticks, clubs or anything that they could find, the balance,—a dozen or more,—started toward the conflagration. They got to the shack in minutes and the biggest free-for-all fight that this section has seen for many a day was on in full force.

Many bloody faces resulted and the whole party finally ended up in the road, fighting and swearing to the top of their voices. By the time the fight was over the shack had burned to it. ground together with all the clothing of the fellows in the shack and what bedclothing was used in the.

Local officers were notified to put in a few hours on the case and Deputy Constable, County Detective Wilson and Chief of Police Sheeler made a quick run to the Western Maryland Road from which they crossed over to the Slavs' shack and rounded up all the offenders. J. G. Slonaker was also hurried to the scene in his automobile and the two cars brought back the offending foreigners who are now occupying cells in Sheriff Thompson's bastile.

IRVING CONCERT

Irving College Girls Gave Good Concert on Friday Evening.

A large audience greeted the Irving College Girls' Glee Club concert on Friday evening and an excellent concert was given by the young ladies under the leadership of the school. The program included a number of selections by the club, two violin solos by Songs, and two piano numbers by Miss Swift. The solos by Miss Songs and Miss Slingluff were worthy of special mention as was also a quartet number. Miss Colpitt, the reader, also heartily received by the audience every time she appeared. The entire program was followed by very vigorous applause. After the concert refreshments of ice cream were served at several informal dances in the fraternity houses at college.

AUTO FIRE ENGINE

Littlestown Company Gets an Auto Fire Truck.

The committee appointed by Alpha Fire Company of Littlestown for the purpose of purchasing an auto truck has contracted with a representative of the Martin Works, of York, for a combination chemical and hose truck, to be delivered in ninety days. The truck weighs 6500 pounds, and has a 4-cylinder motor 35 H. P., solid detachable tires, two 35 gallon chemical tanks and necessary hose for same, basket to carry 1,000 feet 2-inch hose, etc. The price paid was $1,500. The list price of the machine was $2,250 but the Littlestown people allowed $1,000 for the chemical engine.

LECTURES AT POULTRY SHOW

Biglerville Poultry Show to have an Added Feature. Two Lecturers for Afternoons and Evenings. Other Arrangements.

Managers of the Biglerville poultry show are making arrangements for the exhibit which they each year have. The coming show will have as special features of the show a lecture by some well recognized expert. It is the plan to have these lectures in the afternoon and in the evening and a very attractive program is to be outlined. As the exhibit is to last for four days there will be eight lectures by the lecturers.

There will be several divisions to the show as there were with the January show and each will have its own instructors. F. G. Will of Telford, this state, will lecture on Wednesday evening, the opening day of the show on "Poultry for Profit" and C. C. Shoemaker, of Mount Joy, will lecture during the entire week for lectures which will be announced later. He is interested in poultry, pay week.

Prof. Cummings, will be recalled upon the judge of poultry at the first show and he will again be on duty in this capacity. The second show will have the assistance of Mr. Wile. Both are well known poultry men and their services will doubtless give satisfaction to the many poultry raisers.

FATAL "SETTING"

Hen Had Setting Fever With Fatal Results.

Oscar A. Deckenbrock, the blacksmith at Five Points, had a freak hen which broke all records for hatching, and finally starved to death. About a week a year ago he set the hen and innocently slipped thirty eggs under her. Another setting of eggs, which she likely figured, would be sufficient for the hen refused to leave the nest, but kept right on hatching, setting after setting throughout the summer, until to break the hen's persistency, Mr. Deckenbrock started to take heroic measures—penned it up, drove it from the nest, starved it for a day or two several hours, but as soon as let out she started for the hennery, and refused to be turned from it. She would go until this week, when it died, probably from starvation. Mr. Deckenbrock says he has no seats and that we cannot recover his money, we will not press the body execution in State obstance to satisfy the judgement."

MOUNTAIN FIRES

Thermmen Near Scene of Destructive Blaze on Mountain.

A fierce forest fire burned for several days last week on Jack's Mountain in Franklin County. The fire was about four miles from the state land and destroyed much valuable timber. It was discovered by a fire tower lookout. Many of the burning area is on the state forest reserve.

A RUINED ROMANCE

Genevieve Ward's Story of Her Wedding Tragedy.

PARTED AT THE CHURCH DOOR

After a Dramatic Ceremony Following a Complication That Became as Legendary as Wilkie Collins' "No Name." Our Government and the Case.

In Mrs. Tweedie's "Thirteen Years of Court Life" appears the full circumstances of Genevieve Ward, the famous actress.

One morning in March, 1868, emma a lady called at the American legation in Stuttgart. She was "constitutional, my dear," she explained. "So I thought I would call and tell you that I am going to wallow this morning, and after a little more and this evening I shall be able to utter mile home and enjoy my breakfast all the better for it."

"You are a marvel!" exclaimed our author. "Seven miles and over seventy! I saw your Volumnia's one great scene. Was that why you were not present at with lameness?"

"Yes," she said, "and the next day I started for Rome. I got a telegram my self from the American minister, telling me that a marriage in Rome a few weeks before between two Americans was known after receiving the message I set off."

"Were you very tired?"

"Not at all. I waited nearly all the way and rolled to my fellow passengers and they I arrived, quite refreshed, went at once to see to some business. Then, as I had a couple hours to spare before the train left, I went to the Protestant church. Hearing the organ playing while awaiting my arrival I stayed a few minutes and then walked home, and arrived back a few days."

"Is the great mystery of Miss Wards marriage merely as she told it to Mrs. Tweedie?

"It was travelling with my mother and brother on the Riviera in 1867, when we met a Prussian. Count de Bismarck Bohlen. He was very handsome, very fascinating, very rich and twenty-eight. I was seventeen and a child in my heart, and it was settled I should be married at the consulate at Nice, as there was another setting of eggs, which she likely figured, would be sufficient for the hen refused to leave the nest, but kept right on hatching, setting after setting throughout the summer, until to break the hen's persistency, Mr. Deckenbrock started to take heroic measures—penned it up, drove it from the nest, starved it for a day or two several hours, but as soon as let out she started for the hennery, and refused to be turned from it. She would go until this week, when it died, probably from starvation. Mr. Deckenbrock says he has one heir to estate to be finished at once, and there are two heirs to the estate, namely, the sons of the Greek church being married in the Russian church service. I told my mother. At the noon breakfast my mother and Bismarck and drake received her sure, and she was

WILSON SEES TEST OF TREATY

Lillyetton May Follow Passage of Allen Land Bill.

VOTE ON MEASURE TODAY

Secretary Bryan Visits Japanese Colony Near Sacramento and Stops at District Seat.

Sacramento, Cal., May 2.—The visit in the senate on the Webb alien land bill, aimed at the Japanese, was just over until today on motion of Senator Curtis, and the possibility of developments before that time is being discussed on all sides here.

This action was taken soon after the senate convened, and after the following telegram from President Wilson to Governor Johnson was made public by the governor:

"I take the liberty of calling your attention to the Webb bill, which I would invoke an appeal to the country on the question of treaty rights, and ask you on what might be long and delicate litigation."

Governor Johnson telegraphed this reply:

"I thank you very much for your suggestion. The fault may be due to the fact that we have endeavored to preserve affirmatively upon the face of our bill no treaty violation. I have referred the matter at once to our attorney general, and I would be extremely grateful for any suggestions that would avoid the objection you mention."

Governor Johnson transmitted the correspondence to Senator Thompson one of the authors of the original alien land bill, with this statement:

"In consultation with Attorney General Webb, we can see no basis for any language can be employed which might not be eliminated subject to the same objection that is suggested in the president's telegram.

"The attorney general in the bill prepared has carefully affirmatively tried to preserve all treaty rights, and not left that subject to be passed upon the fact of alien land ownership, of course would, from my standpoint, endeavor in the most complete fashion to preserve the treaty good faith in the matter of treaties that have hereto fore been enacted and terms of which would impair—no matter what might be the good intentions involved—the obligations of any treaty that may have been previously made.

"This being our desire, it seems to this attorney general and myself that no language can be employed that will not be capable of the same objection suggested."

The Japanese problem as it actually exists on the farm and ranches of Sacramento county was discussed at dinner by Secretary Bryan on a two hour automobile trip through the thickly populated Florin district, ten miles south of the city.

Governor Johnson and Assemblyman Bradford accompanied the secretary aroud with a number of farms to explain the scenes that met the eyes of the visitor, and Mr. Bryan seemed deeply interested. His only comment was made to the effect "not only a Japanese colony, but a very pretty California village."

In the Florin district, orchards about twenty-five miles south of Sacramento, are the property of 1500 Japanese Europeans and 400 Americans. Twelve years ago there were less than a score of Japanese in the community now they practically control the grape and berry industry of that section. They own the factory where the berry boxes are made and when the party visited the shop Mr. Bryan saw thirty five Japanese girls at work. He was told by Governor Johnson that six years ago Americans girls were employed there at higher wages and with shorter hours of labor.

A stop was made at the district school of Florin, where the party visited the first grade. It was a typical schoolroom, with pictures of Washington and Lincoln on the walls, but in the seats below them were twenty-one two Japanese children and twenty American boys and girls. The Americans ranged between six and seven years of age, while the Japanese included several who were sixteen and seventeen but most of them had been supplied for them.

With the enactment of legislation in sight, opinions on the measure are conflicting, some observers contending that the Webb bill, drafted by California's attorney general, is really a more drastic anti-Japanese bill than any of the others and others contending that the Webb bill, drafted by California's attorney general, is really a more drastic anti-Japanese bill than any of the others and others contending that the Webb bill, drafted by California's attorney general, is really a more drastic anti-Japanese bill than any of the others and others contending

RAILROADS OBEY "FULL CREW" LAW

New Act Now in Effect in New Jersey.

Philadelphia, May 2. — The "full crew" law passed by the New Jersey legislature last winter, which endeavors the state to carry a certain number of trainmen on every train, went into effect yesterday.

Representatives of railroads bitterly opposed the law, they have complied with the requirement with the result until the constitutionality of the measure is decided.

The law specifies that crews on freight trains shall consist of not fewer than five men, and on passenger trains of not fewer than six men. On passenger trains the law does not apply to the crew must consist of at least two men in the cab of the engine and one in the caboose.

Violations of the law will be made on trains operating in Pennsylvania. This was due to the fact that the "full crew" law has been in force in Pennsylvania for years. Upon the application of its protest against the law, the Pennsylvania railroad has carried out its enforcement in this state since January 1 at an increased expense of $500,000.

The railroads harshest hit were those operating between Philadelphia and Camden, Camden and Atlantic City, and Camden and New Jersey from New York and Delaware.

TO STAY IN YORK

Minnesota's Governor Will Live there While Attending Celebration.

Governor Eberhart, of Minnesota, and his staff, accompanied by their wives, will occupy apartments in the Colonial hotel, York, for the week of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. The governor and his party, with their sons and they expect to visit the battlefield each day of the celebration, returning to the Colonial hotel in York.

This same plan, says the York Gazette, has been followed by thousands of other visitors and the hotels of York have been crowded to capacity for that period. The Gazette thinks it altogether probable that the city will be thronged to the limit on account of visitors to the great celebration, for it is a safe assumption that a large part of the visitors can secure accommodations in or near Gettysburg. The York Chamber of Commerce is taking a lively interest in the matter of securing accommodations for the strangers and citizens who are willing to entertain visitors should look to the fact be known to Secretary Eugene F. Weigle, of the Chamber of Commerce. He is receiving many applications for information of this kind.

URGED FOR BISHOP

Chambersburg Pastor To Be Boomed For Bishop.

The delegates from the Pennsylvania Conference of the United Brethren in Christ to the General Conference in Dewtar, Ill., May 8, have selected as their candidate for support Rev. Dr. W. H. Washinger, of Chambersburg, for the office of bishop in the church. He is well known here. Dr. Washinger has been for a number of years superintendent of the Pennsylvania Conference and is one of the most popular men in the church. The East has now no representative in the bishop's office and it is believed that Dr. Washinger will have the unanimous support of the delegates from the eastern section of the country.

Mrs. Penrose Myers, has returned to her home in Philadelphia, after visiting some time with her daughters, Mrs. John A. Schelling, of Chicago, and Mrs. Lane Schofield, of Chattanooga.
